After Conference With President Roosevelt This Morning Russian Foreign Minister Told Reporters He "Thought There Would Be a Statement Today" on Recognition—Conference Believed Concluded With President.

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP).—Emerging from the White House after a conference with President Roosevelt, Maxim Litvinoff told reporters that he "thought there would be a statement today" on recognition of the Soviet by this government after 13 years of abnormal relations. It was the first time since arrival of the foreign minister that he answered questions by newspapermen, and his attitude was a further indication that the climax of the negotiations between himself and the President was close at hand.

Litvinoff added, however, that any announcement was to come from Mr. Roosevelt. This is expected before the Chief Executive leaves for Warm Springs, Georgia, today.

Litvinoff said he had made no plans to go to Warm Springs but that he did not intend to leave Washington immediately, as he has "some business here."

The commissar conferred with the President at the White House in the forenoon for more than an hour and also talked to William C. Bullitt, the state department's Russian expert.

Kidnaping Charge Lodged Against Three Alleged Gunmen Here

Three Men Charged With Abducting Earl Snyder and Clarence Buddenhagen, Forest Employees, Last Saturday. Now Face Two Charges in Court Here—Hearing Will Be Held Wednesday.

Thomas Napolitano and Abraham Bergel of New York City and Samuel Weinstein of 136 Newark avenue, the trio held by the Kingston police on charges of being the three men who held up and abducted Earl Snyder and Clarence Buddenhagen, two employees of the Forest Park Company, last Saturday when the Forest car the two men were riding in was forced into the curb on Home street, and Snyder was compelled to get into the car of the alleged gunmen, while one of the three men got in the car with Buddenhagen, faced a charge of kidnaping when they were arraigned in police court this morning. Entered pleas of not guilty and had their hearings set down for next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bail is to be fixed by the county judge, as the city judge has no jurisdiction to fix bail.

Weinstein is represented by Attorney Andrew J. Cook, while Bergel has retained Attorney Chris J. Flanagan. Napolitano informed Judge Culliton that he had retained no attorney, but desired to do what his companions had done, enter a plea of not guilty and ask for a hearing next Wednesday afternoon.

The three men were brought into court this morning heavily guarded. While Bergel and Napolitano appeared to be unmoved by the seriousness of their position, Weinstein was nervous; the other two smiled and joked as they whispered together while waiting for court to convene. The only conversation Weinstein carried on was when he talked in whispers in answer to questions by Mr. Cook.

It is expected that an examination on both the charge of robbery in the first degree and the charge of kidnaping lodged against the trio today will be held next Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Weitz testified that while she was employed by Grace as his nurse in 1932, he criminally attacked her and later induced her to take a drug that would prevent her from becoming a mother.

"I waited and waited to see him," she said after telling the jury he had been wrecked and that she was in need of financial aid.

"All I planned," she testified, "was to make one last appeal to Mr. Grace to give me a little money so that I could go to some quiet place and rest."

She said she placed a pistol in her purse because she intended to kill herself before Grace if he refused to aid her. Instead of listening to her appeal, Miss Weitz testified, Grace started into the house.

"I felt myself trembling all over," she said. "I was dazed. I reached for my gun and the next thing I heard was a crash."

She insisted that she had no idea of shooting Grace and did not intentionally point the gun at him. Her testimony followed the outline of a statement made to the jury by her attorney, James Duggan of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Give Out 700 Blanks In an Hour in New York

Long Queue Stood in Cold for Several Hours Prior to Office Opening—10,000 Liquor Applications Ready for Release For On-Premise Sales Only.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP).—An hour after the city office of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board opened today 700 applications for on-premise sale of wine and liquor had been handed out to men and women, many of whom had stood shivering in line for several hours.

Ten thousand application blanks were available for the day's rush, and office workers expected these would be exhausted by the time the office closed. More will be available tomorrow.

The on-premise licensees apply to hotels, restaurants, clubs, and the like. Many of the applicants voiced displeasure over the ruling forbidding bars.

One of the requirements for procuring a license is that the applicant furnish a photograph of his place of business and a $2,000 bond. As a result, commercial photographers and businessmen did a brisk business with the crowd.

Until today, the board has required applications to off-premise licensees, retail liquor stores, and the like.

Captures Thieves With Meat Axe

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP).—Wielding a meat cleaver, John Wasolien, 32, night manager of a restaurant, early today captured two of four thieves who had beaten him and robbed the cash register of $10.

Four young men attacked Wasolien after he had served them coffee and attempted to leave the restaurant after snatching the cash from the register. Two of them escaped but Wasolien picked up a cleaver and beat the other two to the door. Holding them at bay by threatening them with the cleaver, he called for help and a patrolman took the prisoners into custody.

Membership Reports Made By Farm Bureau Committeemen

C. C. DuBois of Ulster Park, president of the Farm Bureau, presided.

After the five dinner, "Hall" Epper of Accord led the community singing with Floyd McKinstry at the piano. Mr. DuBois opened the meeting by stating that this was a family party for Farm Bureau committeemen in recognition of their services in behalf of their organization. Millard Davis, president of the Farm and Home Bureau Association, spoke briefly urging the committeemen to complete the follow-up work in the country.

The directors were in charge of the various communities during the drive this year and they were asked to call on the chairmen of the community committees who gave the following reports:

A. P. Kaplan, chairman of the Accord community, reported 15 paid members and at least 10 more because the canvassing was only half completed. The 1933 membership in Accord was 15.

T. M. Baker of Marlborough reported 34 paid members to date with 10 more to come in and the prospect of securing about 10 others. This will bring the Marlborough total close to the 50 members they had for 1933.

Kenneth Taber of Milton stated that they had 40 members in 1933 and that they now have 55 with six more to be secured.

C. Ira Thompson of Plattkill reported for Frank Bush. They had 25 members in 1933 and Mr. Thompson stated that they now had 34 and were sure to get eight or nine more.

George Thornton of Wawarsing stated that they had 19 members in 1933. Thirteen had renewed for 1934 and four promised to send in. Previous to the membership reports the audience was entertained with several songs by Mrs. Arthur Kurtz of New Paltz and tricks of magic by Fred Van Dusen of Kingston. Fred DuBois of New Paltz, vice president of the Farm Bureau, was called upon to speak and he urged the committeemen to attend the annual meeting on December 5, at the First Dutch Church in Kingston, and take an active part in their organization. Mr. DuBois suggested that those present urge other members to attend and have the largest annual meeting ever held.

This was one of the largest meetings of Farm Bureau leaders ever held in the county.

Pittman Says Silver Will Be Restored By the President

Senator's Own Plan Is Mine (Continued from Page 1)—Household Studies Several Plans in Addition to Silver Monetary Metal or Commodity, Is Question.

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP).—The other American monetary development that was added today a prediction by Senator Pittman (D-Nebr.), long an advocate of silver re-employment, that President Roosevelt "will take the initiative in the restoration of silver."

He has under consideration now several plans to accomplish this, said Pittman in a speech for the monetary committee called today by Senators Thompson (R-Okla.) and Smith (D-Conn.).

"One plan that I have submitted to him for his consideration," Pittman continued, "is the opening of the mints of the United States to the coinage of silver produced in the United States."

From the White House, though, there came no indication that Mr. Roosevelt would take this plan before the many others that he is studying. But persons familiar with the President's program expressed a belief that eventually, at least, he would try to do something more concrete for silver.

So far, three persons said, the President had relied upon his gold-buying plan, hopeful that as the prices of commodities went up that of silver would too. Even some of his advisers, however, fail to agree on whether silver is a monetary metal, like gold, or just another commodity.

With Henry Morgenthau, Jr., this morning taking his oath as under-secretary of the treasury, some administration sources held there was no change likely soon in the government's monetary plan. Whether the fact that the gold price yesterday for a third consecutive day, was kept steady at $35.56 a gram, Mr. Roosevelt was any nearer stabilization of the dollar in foreign exchange none would say.

Efforts Pressed to Recover Hart's Body

Police Say Two Men Confessed Throwing Body of Brooke L. Hart in San Francisco Bay After Abducting Him.

San Jose, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP).—Efforts to recover the body of Brooke L. Hart, which authorities said would complete the case against his alleged kidnapers and slayers, were pressed by state and federal authorities today.

John M. Holmes, 29, and Thomas H. Thurmond, 28, who Department of Justice agents and state officials said confessed to throwing Hart in San Francisco Bay after abducting him, were held in a San Francisco jail.

Grappling hooks brought up a strip of white cloth with thin purple stripes from the bay near the place the two men were quoted as saying they tossed the 22-year-old San Jose store executive.

Authorities said the material matched the description of a shirt Hart was wearing when he vanished shortly before a $50,000 ransom demand was made by telephone to his family November 8.

A San Francisco police boat and a yacht, owned by a friend of the Hart family, were engaged in the dragging operations.

The efforts to recover the body were started shortly after Holmes and Thurmond allegedly confessed yesterday and were taken to San Francisco to prevent possible mob violence from San Jose residents who swarmed about the court house here.

Sheriff William J. Emig, who trapped Thurmond in a telephone booth at a San Jose garage while the latter was allegedly making further ransom demands on Alex J. Hart, wealthy San Jose merchant and father of young Hart, said no one except the two men was involved.

Holmes was later arrested at a hotel, to which officers were led by Thurmond, and was taken to San Francisco where he was questioned by state and federal authorities.

The two men were temporarily held under the Federal kidnaping law. District Attorney Fred Thomas said here they will be prosecuted under a state law which makes the penalty for kidnaping, where the victim suffers bodily injury, death or life imprisonment.

Sheriff Emig said the alleged confessions of the two men varied only in minor details and in that each sought to place the major responsibility on the other.

"Social Teas" Keep Newsmen Guessing

Reporters Told Visit of J. P. Morgan at White House Today Purely Social—Morgan Says It Wouldn't Be Proper to Tell What Was Said.

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP).—Another tea-party conference was behind President Roosevelt today—a meeting with J. Pierpont Morgan and Myron C. Taylor at which anything from cabbages to kings might have been discussed.

White House attaches told newsmen, after it was discovered that the New York financier and the chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation were late yesterday callers, that the meeting was purely "social."

But upon what subjects the chat over the tea-cups touched were not revealed. At the executive mansion it was reiterated today that there had been no "business" at the meeting.

"You know it would not be proper for me to discuss with you what I talked to the President about," said Morgan to newspapermen under the White House portico.

Taylor followed suit with similar words. Both were smiling and genial and apparently pleased with their visit.

The President sent two other afternoon tea callers away in a pleasant humor earlier this week. Alfred E. Smith, whom Mr. Roosevelt once termed "The Happy Warrior," and John J. Raskob were the visitors.

Observers were guessing today that since both Morgan and Taylor are such important figures in the financial world, that at least some talk on money policy or such subjects might have crept into their chat with the Chief Executive.

However, it was pointed out at the White House that Mr. Roosevelt participated in the tea conversation, which was held in an upstairs sitting room of the White House.

"Dutch" Handel Is Free from 3 Counts

Alfred "Dutch" Handel, who is well known in Kingston as Al O'Neill, early this week was freed from three charges in New York city. In homicide court he was freed of a murder charge in the death of Charles Staak, father of four, who was killed in the Club Rhumba in New York city last Sunday morning. The following day he was freed of a charge of driving a car while intoxicated and a charge of reckless driving. O'Neill in 1932 obtained a pistol permit here, according to the Ulster County Pistol Bureau.

"I have a little town up there," he said. "I must get back."

JOHN WIEGERT'S CAR WAS STRUCK BY FREIGHT TRAIN

John Wiegert of 88 Emerick street called at police headquarters shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday evening and reported that his auto had been struck by a freight train on the Flatbush avenue crossing of the West Shore railroad, and the rear end of his car quite badly damaged, but no one had been injured. He said that the crossing gates were up and there was no train on duty at the time, and that a brakeman from the freight was not at the crossing to flag the train.

Think Freighter Deserted

Long Point, Ont., Nov. 17 (AP).—The long grey hull of the D. E. Calender, stranded freighter 10 miles up the coast from here, was thought to be deserted today. A tug which had come from Buffalo yesterday and stayed with the grounded vessel all night, had gone at dawn and there were no signs of life on the craft today. No smoke issued from the funnel, leading lighthouse-keepers to believe the men had left the ship. The ship is not thought to be in any danger.

Dartmouth Student Killed

Windsor, Vt., Nov. 17 (AP).—John J. Johnson, 19, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a sophomore at Dartmouth College, was killed instantly at midnight last night when he lost control of his automobile on an "S" curve where three Dartmouth students were killed a month ago. A companion, Henry P. Mollis, Jr., 18, also of Brooklyn and a freshman at Dartmouth, escaped injury. The car hit three trees and a telegraph pole and rolled down a gully.

Railroad Switchman Saves Family of Five

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP).—Noticing flames shooting from the roof of a house near the railroad tracks, Peter Elmowski, 40, a switchman for the New York Central Railroad, today saved a family of five from death in their burning home.

Elmowski left his post after seeing the flames and aroused members of the house by kicking and pounding on the door. Joseph Kilmee, his wife, Mary, and their three children, fled from the house in their night clothing and were sheltered from the severe cold by neighbors. Their home was destroyed.

British Admirals Preach Navy Revival

GERMAN POLICY SEEN AS THREAT TO UNION JACK

By OSCAR LEIDING

London (AP)—Demands for Britannia to roll the waves as of yore are being voiced here in many quarters as a result of Germany's withdrawal from the disarmament conference.

Admirals, past and present, and politicians—the latter, however, not without an eye on the nation's budget—have joined in the cry for building up the British fleet.

Beatty's Warning Blunt

Two prominent voices have been raised for the cause, Admiral Sir Ernie Chatfield, the first sea lord, and Lord Beatty, war-time hero, who see in Britain's present position the need for action.

"The nation must take stock of its defense position," says Sir Ernie Chatfield, "and consider whether on its present naval expenditure it is maintaining a navy strength in accordance with its policy."

Admiral Beatty goes further. Describing the navy as "the hand-maiden of our foreign policy," he said to the Navy League:

"Without a strong navy we are of no use to anybody and we cannot play our part as a great power."

Lord Beatty supports the movement for smaller—but more—battleships.

"The United States wants larger ships," he said. "The British Empire wants many ships. Why? Because we have far greater responsibilities on the sea than any other country."

Decline London Treaty

He called the British acceptance at the 1930 London naval conference of 50 cruisers, on a parity with the United States, a "grave and deplorable blunder."

"It is not the parity with the United States that I cavil at," he said. "If she wants as many as we do, why not? But the acceptance of 70 to do the work required of 50 was a grave and deplorable blunder."

He termed it "a matter of interest and grave concern" that the personnel of the United States navy represents a 60 per cent increase over 1914, that of Japan a 74 per cent increase, while Britain has reduced her personnel by 35 per cent.

When this was announced in parliament recently there were cries of "Shame!" from conservative benches.

Sir Ernie Chatfield, while stressing the necessity for a national stock-taking, nevertheless finds many things in the British navy of which he is proud.

War Records Bettered

The fuel consumption per horsepower hour, at full power, has been reduced for all types of ships by approximately one-third of that of war designs, he says.

In the case of battleships and cruisers, the machinery weights have been cut 20 to 30 per cent.

The destroyer "Acheron," fitted with supercharged heavy oil engines, achieved the feat of halving the fuel consumption of its war-time sisters, the lowest of any steam-driven warship.

SEAPLANES TO PROTECT DOORWAY OF CAPE TOWN

Cape Town (AP)—South Africa's coastal defenses will be strengthened by establishment of a seaplane base at Rodden Island, near the entrance to Table Bay.

The scheme was recommended by O. Pirow, minister of defense, when he returned from a study of Euro-

Guardians Of Great Britain's Sea Might

"Big navy men" of England are clamoring for a stronger fleet, citing Germany's withdrawal from the disarmament conference. Leaders of the drive are Admiral Lord Beatty of Jutland fame (left) and Sir Ernie Chatfield, first sea lord. The center picture shows blue jackets of H. M. S. Renown leaving their ship fully armed for a drill on landing tactics.

THOSE LITTLE PIGS

Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf? Not the little man, apparently, who has gone ahead laying bricks or performing, when he had the chance, any of the homely tasks by which men maintain life and establish comfort. When the whole history of this depression is written, the patience and courage, the gameness under affliction of the man who has carried the full weight of trouble will appear as the most striking aspect of the whole period. This man has, from experience, some knowledge of the habits of the big bad wolf. He knows what the beast can do and how far he can go and what baffles him. He knows, moreover, with a certain fine stoicism, that if he comes, he comes, and there's an end on't.

The men who are scared out of their shoes are those who have built their houses with the fragile paper of other people's money. They wouldn't know how to earn a real living if they tried. And are they terrified? Well, well! See them cower! They are so frightened that they shy off even from the things and people that could help them. Surely Big-Business-Affraid-of-its-own-Shadow is now a subject for smiles—if not for tears or contempt.

But cheer up, old chap! All is not lost. In the day of terror, the little pig who built his house with bricks will be generous. He will open his strong door and let you in. He can afford to be generous. He knows how to make things himself, you see. His walls aren't built with other people's money.

CHRISTMAS JOBS.

Postmaster General Farley directs all postmasters to employ for temporary service during the Christmas rush "to the fullest possible extent" competent and deserving men and women who are unemployed, and who have dependents. Those employed will be paid 55 cents an hour and will be limited to 10 hours a day. They will be put on without regard to civil service rules and regulations for this short term.

Mr. Farley suggests, moreover, that the public send Christmas mail early. It is time even now to be packing off gifts for friends in the Far East. The gift-mailing public will lose a day this year, for all carrier deliveries and window service will be suspended Sunday, December 24, as well as on Christmas Day. Those who wait till the traditional last minute will be too late unless they make the last minute come earlier, so to speak. And the sooner the rush begins, the sooner the extra workers will be needed. As they need the work and the money right now, here is one place where the general public can help to give employment. Gifts, however modest, bought and mailed early, will help some other family to get comfortably over a bad spot.

DEATH AND TAXES

A proverb states that there are only two things sure—death and taxes. One of the compensating features about death in the minds of some people, however, is that by death they may escape more taxes. From France comes an interesting little tale which combines these in an unusual way. A man owed the license tax on his motorcycle. The process server looked for him at his home and at hospitals in vain. Then he tried prisons. He finally found his man in a death cell, under sentence for murder. There he served his notice that the man must appear in court to pay his tax. When the man does so, he will be accompanied by two stout police guards.

One need not mention the fact that if he pays the license fee for the motorcycle he can never ride again. It will be with money stolen from the man he murdered. That leads into the consideration of the malefactor's great wealth in our own land who has so far succeeded in evading both death and taxes. It might lead, too, to consideration of how some of the 15 million spent the money so hopefully banking in their case by the little fellows, all of which is, perhaps, trite.

NEW VIEW OF BANKS

Along with his present indignation at the methods and tactics of "accidental" bankers of the Wall Street type, the public should feel some shame at its past policy toward those methods. Up to the fall of 1929 many of us approved of the very activities which are now regarded as financial racketeering—communities, great and small, over the land, other bankers and banking institutions did the same things and were regarded with admiration by fellow-citizens.

Backs and bankers refraining from such spectacular financial coups had to wait until the crash came before they were appreciated. It is only now that they are reaping in public esteem and increased business their due reward for having refrained from gambling with depositors' money. Their conception of the responsibilities and duties of a bank was ahead of that of the general public. The public acquiesced too easily in the notion that the function of a banker was to get rich, making some of his associates rich along with him.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY James W. Barton, M. D.

THE ANXIOUS PATIENT

We are all familiar with the effects of anxiety or worry in depressing the appetite and upsetting digestion. We are familiar also with its effects upon the heart in that it increases the beats 10 to 20 more per minute.

However, what we are not so familiar with is the effects of worry or anxiety upon all the other organs and processes of the body.

Anxiety can so interfere with the proper workings of the body processes that almost any disease may be suspected—diabetes because of the increased flow of urine; tuberculosis because of loss of weight; anaemia because the blood becomes thin; heart disease because of rapid heart and early breathlessness, and also various other ailments.

The average family physician in treating an "anxious" patient, knowing his patient, thinks he is doing him a kindness by telling him there's nothing wrong with him and that he doesn't really require any treatment. This is a mistake. Drs. Titus H. Harris and Abe Hauser, Galveston, Texas, tell us that "anxiety states are probably the most frequently encountered conditions in medical practice; may resemble or simulate almost any form of physical disease, and if properly handled will show gratifying improvement."

"The symptoms are caused by the effect of prolonged anxiety on that part of the nervous system controlling body processes, resulting in actual disturbance of the workings of any organ or system, most commonly the digestive system, or the kidneys and bladder system."

In the anxiety states the disturbance is chiefly emotional and affects the functions which are controlled unconsciously (blushing, collapsing, or sinking feeling, diarrhoea), and alter the patient's feelings. These anxiety states are based on fear, conflicts in the mind and emotional stress.

"Successful treatment consists in establishing the patient's confidence, by making a careful and complete examination, which shows the patient that the physician is really trying to find the trouble if it exists."

The results of this examination are fully explained to the patient, and the physician tries to help him adjust himself to his surroundings and circumstances.

Remember, anxiety or worry, can make you feel that you have some real ailment.

FORBIDDEN VALLEY

CHAPTER FIVE
ON THE WING

Curt swore to himself that when he got through with the Karakhan business he was through and done and would not allow himself to be entangled any deeper.

"I'm still a Mounted," he muttered. "I'm taking this as to pay a little fraction of what I owe Karakhan, and because—well, I guess I'm a wild man and can't resist a good chase. If I run that fellow down, he's worth half a dozen Consolidated jobs."

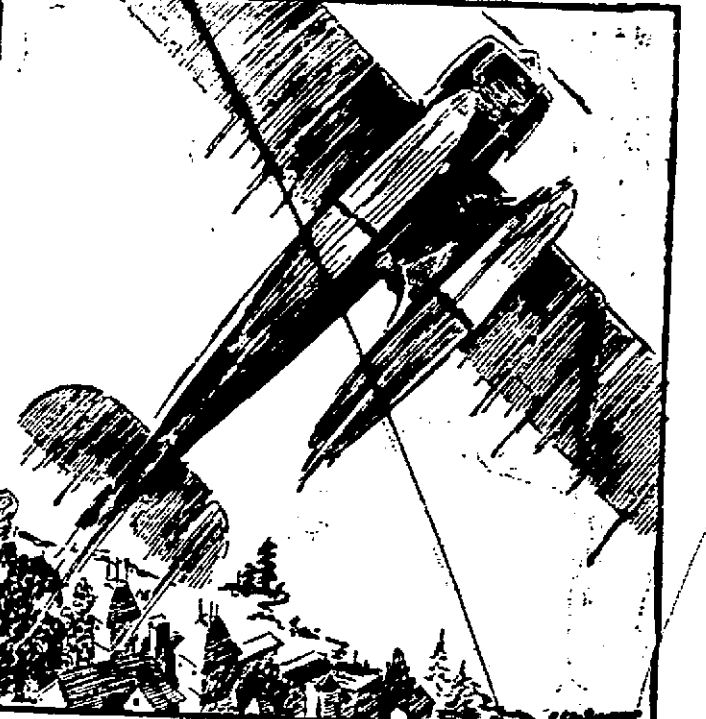

"There won't be any if," Curt. "You'll take care."

He tried to say it confidently, to hide his own doubts. At the best, Curt had only an outside chance. The difficulties of the hunt were appalling. Yonder

While Smash pumped the gas, Curt stripped the canvas hood from the radial and inspected. Snapping away, they climbed into the cabin, cranked the inertia starter and stood out into the lake. At the controls, Curt skimmed north two miles to warm the motor, veered around into the light wind, and gave the plane the gun. Dashing down lake, he reached speed, rocked the stick and jumped the ship into the air.

He circled once for altitude, passed over Edmonston, a mile above the still-sleeping city, and headed west toward the snowy Selkirk and the Pacific Coast.

As he flew along, his eyes were on the horizon over the plane's nose, but his thoughts went on beyond that horizon to the weeks and months ahead. He wondered what the Karakhan hunt would take him and what the veiled future held for him.

He circled once for altitude.

hundred and thirty thousand a certain man had disappeared last fall. He had stepped out into the dawning streams of humanity and those streams had closed over him, obliterating every trace.

Shrewd detectives, men like Inspector Baldwin, had miserably failed to track him. The scene was cold, nine months cold. As immediate havens for Karakhan, down the west coast lay a score of cities ranging up to a million; and across the Pacific yawned all the teeming ports of the Orient.

And yet he was asking Curt to pick up that man's trail and run him to earth! It was like trying to find a cloud one had seen last week. Besides all those tremendous handicaps, Karakhan had always been a shade better than any man ever sent after him. He had the power of money, the advantage of a cold trail, and the whole world for his hiding place.

But at least it would be a magnificent hunt. This battle between Tennyson and that criminal of two continents was going to be a battle worth watching.

He wondered how Curt would go about the search. What methods could he use that hadn't been used already?

"Have you got any idea of how you're going about the business, Curt?"

Curt nodded. "I'm going to make use of his weak point."

"His weak point?"

"Women," Curt said tersely.

EARLY the next morning Curt and Smash checked out at the hotel, ate breakfast, and taxied through the gray wet dawn to Cooking Lake. At a private pier Curt's trim amphibious was rocking on the waves. A three-place cabin plane, the sturdy ship had carried him and Paul and Smash all over the Keweenaw barrens, up and down the water-logged Mackenzie country, and westward into the unknown Arctic Rockies.

Across long "dry hops" where a honking motor would have meant a fatal crack-up, it had taken them unflatteringly, so that they had come to look on it as one of them, a silent partner.

STROKES OF GENIUS

THE most splendid room in France, King Louis XIV. once received foreign potentates in the Hall of Mirrors in order to show them that the court of France could rival the splendors of the east.

The Hall, on the first floor of the Versailles Palace, twelve miles from Paris, is over 22 feet long. One wall consists of 17 windows opening on a garden. Directly opposite are 17 mirrors the exact size of the windows. The decorations, benches and candelabra were all original of heavy silver. The remarkable room was built by the architect Harouduin-Mansart in 1678.

The palace itself, one of the chief glories of France, is over one-fourth of a mile long, exclusive of the marvelous gardens with their fountains and statues. In Louis XIV's day, 4,000 servants were required to take care of it!

It was in the Hall of Mirrors, in 1871, that William I was crowned German Emperor by Bismarck. In 1919, the historic hall witnessed the signing of the Treaty of Peace between the Allied Powers and Germany.

ANNUAL HUGUENOT HOME SERVICE AT MEMORIAL

The annual Huguenot Service of Honor, sponsored by the Huguenot Memorial Association, will be observed at 3 p. m., Sunday, November 19, at the Church of the Huguenots, the National Huguenot Memorial, which is located on the Abby Road, at Huguenot Park, State Island.

Mrs. George Smye, recording secretary of the association will be the chairman. The chief speaker will be the Rev. John H. Warshuis, D. D., pastor of the Brighton Heights Reformed Church.

A memorial window will be dedicated in honor of a descendant of Joris Jansen de Rapalje, the Huguenot founder, the late Alexander Minard Wilson, being the gift of Mr. Wilson's daughter, Mrs. Sara Porter Allen, of Irvington, N. J.

An American flag and a Huguenot flag, the gifts of Miss Margaret A. Jackson, of New York City, secretary of the Huguenot Society of America, will be presented to the church and dedicated during the service.

A beautiful planting of evergreens and shrubbery, the beginning of the landscaping of the grounds of the National Memorial, given through the Garden Department of the Prince Bay Women's Club, of Staten Island, will be dedicated in memory of the early settlers of the south shore of the island.

The invitation to the service is extended to all who are interested in the living spirit and traditions of the Huguenots, and in their influence upon American life, as well as those who wish to see the beautiful Huguenot shrine on Staten Island.

Sandino Transforms Jungle Fighters Into Co-Operative Plantation Workers

Managua, Nicaragua (A.P.).—General Augusto Sandino, defiant foe of American marines, has become Senor Augusto Cesar Sandino, co-operative planter and peace officer.

The man who for several years engaged every man spread for him by the "devil dogs" and the national guard of his own country, is now in his old stamping ground on the Coco river.

Leads Picked Men

His headquarters are at Wawita, a river town near Bocay. Under him are 100 men picked from his former followers and allowed to retain their guns so as to aid him in patrolling the region.

But the erstwhile jungle fighters seldom shoulder a rifle these days. Their hours are taken up with farm work.

They are banded in a society which Sandino named "El Co-Operativo Rio Coco." It operates on a collective basis for raising crops and exploiting the natural resources of its district.

Gets Government Aid

The enterprise is backed by a monthly government bonus of $1,000. With this money Sandino buys clothing, medicines, seeds and farm tools for his men.

Products consist of grains, garden truck and cattle. Attempts also are being made to exploit the region's pine and hardwood timber lands, rubber, sisal, gold and silver. The outfit for the district is by river to the Atlantic coast.

Sotomias Salvatierra, minister of agriculture, who went to Sandino's lair in northern Nicaragua last January and arranged a truce with the jungle chieftain, maintains a friendly correspondence with him.

Senor Salvatierra is sure that Sandino is through with politics except as a patriotic individual. He has been assured by the general himself and by relatives and close friends of the latter, that he has no idea of running for the presidency in 1934.

"General Sandino truly desires to see his country standing on its own feet," said Senor Salvatierra. "But he would not reject sincere co-operation to this end from outside sources, if such help was necessary, and this includes the United States."

The minister added that Sandino contemplates a trip abroad, probably to Argentina, as soon as his co-operative society is placed on a firm footing. He is in excellent health but just now is mourning the loss of his wife who died at the birth of a daughter.

Parent-Teacher Associations

The November meeting of the Federated Council of the Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday afternoon at the high school. After the routine business and roll call, Mrs. Stewart Jones gave an interesting report on the Parent-Teacher convention at Syracuse. Presidents of local units are requested to read "Our Platform" from the New York Parent-Teacher Magazine at their next meeting.

Mr. Marion P. T. A. Moore. The regular meeting of the Mt. Marion Parent-Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening, November 14. Following the business meeting a short play was given, showing the strong and the right way to conduct a meeting. The costumes and actions in the wrong way were very funny, bringing forth much laughter. After the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

Christopher's Fear

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"I'll have the Bears gather nuts and apples from the trees that belong to me and give you as many as they took. It will punish them to have to gather food for some one else and you will not have lost anything. They will do this tomorrow," Willy Nilly said. Grandpa wanted to go home and take off his shoes and warm his tired feet and this satisfied him.

"But will you let me have your gun for all time?" "Give up my gun? That's a bit too much," answered Grandpa. Suddenly he noticed a bureau in the corner of the room. "That's a very fine bureau," he began, and then he paused. It was really a valuable piece of furniture and he knew the very person to whom he could sell it. "I'll exchange my gun for that bureau," he said. So Grandpa took the bureau in his car and left the gun behind. "Don't forget about the apples and nuts," he said as he was leaving.

Willy Nilly breathed a long sigh of relief as the door closed. He called upstairs to the animals and told them all that had happened. "For every 50 nuts you gather, Jelly and Honey Bear, I'll give you permission to eat one, and the same with the apples. But please, oh please, my dear, dear animal friends, let's keep out of trouble. If we don't, we'll get in so deep some time we cannot get out again. We've had some very, very narrow escapes." But Christopher was wearing a frightened expression. "What is it, Christopher?" asked Willy Nilly in alarm.

MORE JAPANESE SETTLERS HEAD TOWARD MANCHURIA

Hsienching, Manchuria (AP).—In line with its emigration policy in the new state of Manchukuo, Japan is sending 2,000 families to settle along the railways between Kirin and Tun-hua; Tunkang and the Tamen river, and Lafa and Harbin.

These immigrants will supplement the 1,000 Japanese colonists already at Chiamasa and Fuchia, on the Sungari river. They will be divided into 40 groups of 50 families each. The Japanese government and the South Manchurian railway are financing the settlers and the Manchukuo government will sell land to them at nominal prices.

PLAN MUSICAL SERVICE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

In harmony with the musical service the sermon topic will be "Sing Unto the Lord." The service begins at half past seven.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—A light long held under the bushel of seclusion, Kathryn Sergava, at last is making her official debut in the Hollywood family.

During the year that this blond Russian actress was under contract to M-G-M, nothing was heard of her. The story behind this seeming neglect of a new and unusual personality can only be surmised. But the fact that Kathryn Sergava, wearing a long bob covered by a little blue burl, looks like Greta Garbo's double must have had something to do with it.

Miss Sergava, who had been a dancer, was signed by M-G-M last year, about the time when Garbo was talking about going home. Garbo went, but Garbo came back—and shortly thereafter Kathryn Sergava was released to Warner Bros.

When Resemblance Irs

Miss Sergava is not the "Garbo type," however, and she insists that the resemblance has been a "curse" rather than a blessing. That is why her make-up in her first film, "Bedside," is designed to minimize the likeness.

Within a few moments after one meets her, she is able to dispel the illusion that she is "another Garbo." There is nothing. She chats freely, and discusses with interest the opera, music, the ballet, the social system of Russia, her own trip to Paris as a dancer, embarking on an acting career. She impresses one sincerely as Kathryn Sergava and not as a "Garbo imitator"—and that despite the fact that she has a slow broad smile and an accent that is somewhat suggestive of the Swedish stars.

Twenty-three now, Kathryn has been in America about ten years. She was born in Leningrad (then St. Petersburg) and she was just a child when the Russian revolution sent her family fleeing.

"No, I'm not a contessa," she smiles, knowing Hollywood's reputation for attracting bogus "Russian nobility."

"You Can't Fool Us"
Being mistaken for Garbo on the streets is an annoyance, rather than amusing, she will tell you. Coming from New York, she was surprised when the train's "maitre d'hotel" kept sending large baskets of fruit to her dressing-room.

"I think there is a mistake," she told him finally.

Whereupon she smiled knowingly, she said, and assured her he knew her identity and respected her wish for privacy, but still desired to "do her honor."

"But I am not Miss Garbo," she assured him.

And the hopeless thing about it is, Kathryn says, "that denying only convinces them further that I am."

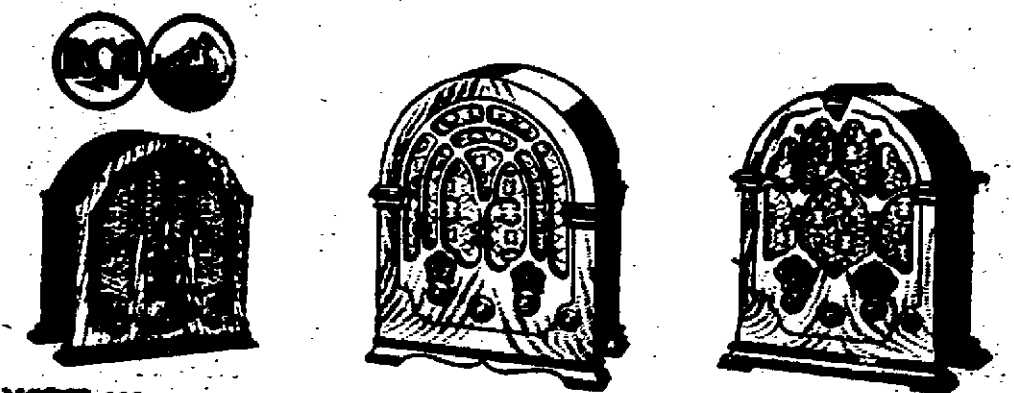

Business between governments is necessarily give and take, but mostly take.

History first mentions a sundial in the Old Testament. The date of this is probably somewhere around 700 B. C., but the earliest one that has been found is an Egyptian instrument now in the Berlin museum, says Pathfinder Magazine. It is an angular bar with cross piece on the short upright which throws longer or shorter shadows along the horizontal limb which is divided into six hours. The ancient Chaldean's sundial was called a hemicycle, that of the Greeks a gnomon, and the Romans had 13 different kinds, among them a portable dial, an adjustable circle dial, and a "ham" dial which when hung in its proper position looked like a ham curing in the smokehouse. The early Anglo-Saxons were found to have sundials when the Romans arrived in Britain, their dials, called Scratch or Mass dials, were placed mostly on the walls of churches—very crude affairs, but still capable of telling the important times of day.

With the adoption of striking clocks at the beginning of the fourteenth century certain changes were made in the construction of the sundial, which was the reckoning of time by equal hours instead of by temporary hours as had been done up to that time.

In the early part of the eighteenth century the extended use of clocks and watches largely superseded the use of sundials, and from that period on they remained in gardens more as ornaments than as utilitarian objects.

With the adoption of striking clocks at the beginning of the fourteenth century certain changes were made in the construction of the sundial, which was the reckoning of time by equal hours instead of by temporary hours as had been done up to that time.

In the early part of the eighteenth century the extended use of clocks and watches largely superseded the use of sundials, and from that period on they remained in gardens more as ornaments than as utilitarian objects.

HOW

TO SUCCESSFULLY PILOT THE UMBRELLA IN RAIN.

A fundamental knowledge of sailing will prove of incalculable value in handling an umbrella in a gusty rain, says the Baltimore Sun. Do not imagine that you can go directly to your destination unless, of course, the wind is immediately at your back. You must be prepared to do a lot of judicious tacking.

It is, of course, possible to tilt the umbrella slightly so as to get a peek out of the corner of one eye and thus keep on your course. But in doing so every precaution should be taken against jibing, which might result in carrying away your mainmast, staysail, flying jib, foretopgallant sail and mizzen-topgallant both upper and lower, or, in other words, having your umbrella turn inside out.

By keeping in the lee of buildings and on your guard against the gales that sweep around street corners you may be able to proceed on a fairly even keel. If the wind increases in velocity you should stand by to shorten sail by grasping the umbrella handle in the right hand and holding the left thumb on the gadget you press when you want the umbrella to shut.

But, perhaps, after all, it is better to lower the umbrella and take your chances without it.

How Patent Is Secured in the United States

Patents are granted chiefly for new inventions or improvements in machinery and apparatus or processes upon proper application and payment of the fees. Life of a patent is 17 years for inventions. To obtain a patent in the United States it is necessary to file an application with the United States patent office in Washington. A complete drawing must be filed (sometimes models are required also) together with complete specifications, which set forth the claim or claims for the part, improvement or combination on which the applicant claims his invention or discovery. These specifications must so describe the article that one reasonably skilled in the art with which it is connected could make it from the specifications as set forth in the application. Hence, the specifications and claims are the most important part of the application and should be drawn up by an expert patent attorney.

How to Figure Immigration Quota

Congress, in enacting the national origins law, fixed an arbitrary limit of 150,000. That number was to be distributed among the European countries according to a complex ratio, based upon the total number of immigrants and their descendants from the beginning of governmental records as related to the total population at the time of the 1920 census. What the share of each country was to be was determined by a careful analysis of the first census of 1790, the records of immigration since 1820, and estimates of the number of descendants both of the population recorded in 1790 and of subsequent arrivals. A provision was included in the law that no country should have a quota less than 100. This raised the final quota figure to 154,714, or slightly in excess of the maximum aimed at.

How Handshaking Originated

In ancient times the right hand was the weapon hand. It was extended empty to signify friendliness and show absence of weapons. This developed into the handshake, the supposition being that while the right (the weapon) hands were clasped, a treacherous blow could not be struck. An interesting exception to this is found in the Bible, Judges 3:15-21, while the handshake as a covenant of friendship is shown in II Kings 10:15. Both the Greeks and Romans practiced shaking hands.

How "Arkansas Traveler" Started

The music that goes with the dialogue is like many other of the old-time fiddler's tunes, so old that its origin is lost to history. Col. Sandy Faulkner, a picturesque and popular character, is said to have gathered up the dialogue while traveling through the back country of Arkansas in the political campaign of 1840. He received the idea from an old native who fiddled in between snatches of wise-cracking conversation.

How Star's Distance Is Shown

The distance of a star from the earth is obtained mathematically by measuring its parallax. The method is in reality a triangulation in which the base line is the radius of the earth's orbit. All modern observations are made with improved instruments, but even so there may be a small degree of error.—Washington Star.

How Electric Clocks Keep Going

By harnessing them to a current that flows for a certain length of time one way and then reverses and flows the other way a similar length of time. If the alternating is exact, it is stated, the clock can neither gain nor lose time.

Cost of Governments In Cities Compared

According to report No. 1460 from the office of the Mayor's Conference in Albany, showing comparative analysis of cost of city government in the year of 1932, the following information is obtained:

City	Pop.	Cost
Kingston	28,088	$51.04
Newburgh	36,347	58.56
Poughkeepsie	40,268	58.62
Watertown	32,205	52.05
Auburn	36,652	36.99
Lackawanna	23,948	68.96
Amsterdam	34,817	48.84
Rome	32,338	39.15
White Plains	35,830	97.87

The above information was gathered by the New York State Bureau of Municipal Information from the State Comptroller's office. It shows the per capita cost of operating the aforementioned cities during the year of 1932, and that the cost of operating the local city government last year was below that of two neighboring cities and a number of other cities throughout the state.

THE BIRTHDAY DETECTIVE

By Jane Osborn

MRS. KELLOGG had come late to the office of Blain and Jones as steadily as a fat woman could.

She opened the door just enough to permit her to stick her broad face within, looked about the room and made a noise sound to attract the attention of the young woman at the switchboard who was also acting as reception clerk.

"Is Mr. Blain out?" she whispered. "Yes, he's just gone to luncheon," said the girl. "I'm sorry."

"I'm not, I'm glad," said retorted Mrs. Kellogg who had now come bravely into the office and seemed to be a little out of breath from her recent maneuver.

"I'm his aunt and I want to talk privately—very privately—with his private secretary."

"I guess I'm as much his private secretary as any one is," said the girl.

"I'm Nancy Howe and I take all his dictation. Just now the telephone operator has gone to luncheon so I'm sitting out here. Could you talk to me here by the board?"

"Why, yes," said Mrs. Kellogg. "If you're quite sure that nephew of mine won't come in. If he's only just gone to luncheon then I'm pretty safe to stay here a little while. I might have telephoned it but I was afraid some one else in the office would overhear and besides I hate to talk with people I can't see. And this is a difficult matter."

"If I can do anything for you or Mr. Blain I'm sure I'd like to," said Nancy Howe.

She devotedly wished that the fustily dressed fat woman would come to the point of her story.

"Well, it's this way. I'm his aunt, Luella Kellogg. You may have heard him speak of me. Not that's funny."

"Mr. Blain has never spoken to me except of business matters."

"Hush!" snapped the aunt. "Well, that's funny. I'd an idea young men rather took their private secretaries into their confidences and all that sort of thing."

"But never mind, as I was saying I'm his Aunt Luella and as you may have heard I have quite a little money which I intend to give to him some fine day. He's my only heir and I don't intend to wait until I'm dead to give him his share. But that's a little beside the point."

"What I wanted you to understand is that I take a tremendous interest in the boy. He may be almost thirty but he seems like a boy to me."

"His birthday is the fifteenth of March and tomorrow is the first. I want to give him a really nice present but I haven't an idea of what he'd like. I'm leaving that for you to discover. You'd better tell me by the tenth, so I'll have a few days to pick it out. I'd ask him only I want it to come as a surprise."

"But how can I find out?" asked Nancy, really troubled.

"I shouldn't think that would be difficult."

"If I was a pretty young stenographer I don't think it would be hard for me to find out what my employer would like for a birthday present."

"Just get to talking some time about hobbies and preferences and get him to tell you about the sort of books he likes, and whether he really wants books."

"Maybe he'd like a new car, or maybe there's some club he'd like to join but can't afford the initiation fee or perhaps he'd like a saddle horse. How am I to know?"

"If I began to pump him he'd be on his guard because he'd know why I was asking."

"I tell you, my dear, if you'll do this little piece of detective work I'll reward you well. There are surely little things a pretty girl like you would like and I'll give you $15 to spend on some little gee-gaw or other."

"But it will be very difficult," said Nancy Howe, really alarmed at the idea of having to accept the commission and yet somehow not liking to disappoint the genial and outspoken fat woman.

"You see, we're very business-like in this office. I would have no occasion to discuss books or hobbies with Mr. Blain. He thinks of me only as a more or less efficient machine."

"Bosh," said the good-natured aunt with an air of finality.

"Pretty girls like you are never looked upon as mere machines by their employers."

"Go along, do what I say, find out what the boy wants and let me know the next time I come in, and the $15 will be yours."

"I won't accept the money," insisted Nancy Howe.

"But if I possibly can I'll find out what Mr. Blain would like. It does seem a shame for you not to know. It would be so unfortunate to spend a lot of money on something he didn't like."

And so the matter was settled. The more Nancy Howe thought about it the more interested she became.

As she sat taking Mr. Blain's dictation she found herself wondering what sort of things he really liked to possess.

She tried to imagine herself some thing of a student of faces. She was studying him intently.

Suddenly Mr. Blain looked up and for a second his eyes met hers. It was apparently a brief disconcerting to him to find his stenographer studying his face so closely when she was supposed merely to be taking his dictation.

At any rate he had to ask her to repeat the entire letter before he could collect his thoughts sufficiently to continue.

"It's going to be pleasant over the week-end," commented Nancy Howe that afternoon as she was about to go home.

"I always like pleasant Saturdays and Sundays. I suppose you play golf?" "Oh, goodness no," quoth Mr. Blain.

"I'd rather saw wood. Golf would bore me to death."

"Most people who don't like golf like horses and dogs," ventured Nancy Howe, surprised at her own bravery.

"Maybe they do," said Mr. Blain. "Then I'm an exception."

"Everyone has to have some sort of hobby," Nancy continued. "But when one has a good fast car I suppose that's enough."

"I haven't even a slow one," said Mr. Blain beginning to be amused at the pumping process.

"Then I suppose you'd like one that would go along about sixty miles an hour."

"No motor cars for me, Miss Howe," he said.

"I took enough chances when I was in the war."

The next day, Saturday, Nancy managed in spite of a great deal of dictation for a half day, to engage Mr. Blain in conversation about books.

But from this she had no satisfaction.

Later she discussed clubs with no better luck.

Every day for a week she continued her pumping process, all carried on, as she thought, with the greatest tact possible.

The most disturbing thing about it was that Mr. Blain seemed to be laughing at her.

He seemed to be as eager to keep her from knowing his preferences as she was eager to discover them.

It was the ninth of March and the next day Mrs. Kellogg would come for her information.

Much to her surprise, Mr. Blain asked Nancy to have luncheon with him.

Nancy might have hesitated, because she had always felt that it was unwise for a girl to lunch with her employer.

Still she took this as a good opportunity to continue her probing.

"See here," said Tom after they had finished a rather light luncheon and were dallying over their hot coffee. "You want, for some reason or other, to find out what I want for a birthday present."

"I'll tell you the honest truth about the matter if you'll answer me a few questions."

"Goodness knows I have a right to ask questions after the way you've been putting me through the third degree lately."

"Now mind, answer me the truth and nothing but the truth."

"Which do you prefer, men with blue eyes or brown?"

"I think I prefer blue eyes," she said, trying not to look embarrassed.

"Would you be willing to marry a man with whom you had worked in business?"

"I don't think I'd object."

"Would you mind much being called Mrs. Thomas Blain?"

"Really, this is too much," said Nancy, very much confused.

"You promised to answer the truth," said Thomas.

"You really wouldn't, would you?" "I don't suppose I would," stammered Nancy.

"Very good," said Thomas. "Now you know what I want for a birthday present. Will you give it to me?"

And Nancy said she would.

Painters Make Use of Models of Royalties

For the picture of the king and queen leaving St. Paul's after its reopening in 1880, which Miss Lindsay Williams, the Welsh artist, painted, she used two models of their majesties, which are kept at Buckingham palace.

Although few know of their existence, says the London Telegraph, these models have been used frequently for recent royal portraits. Artists are thus enabled to study the details of dress at protracted sittings, which normally would be impossible.

The models have been most carefully built to reproduce exactly their majesties' measurements. According to the nature of the painting, they are draped in clothes new or old, and the queen herself is frequently consulted over the many knotty problems of court attire. Sometimes, too, she superintends the dressing.

Frozen Aquarium

In a frozen aquarium, believed by officials to be the only one of its kind, strange fish from many waters stare stonily at thousands of visitors at Seattle every year. The aquarium was not planned, it just grew, until it is becoming world famous. One day a fisherman brought in a strange fish and wanted to hang it up in the refrigeration room. Then another caught a different variety. So it grew until there is now a collection which has attracted as many as 1,300 visitors to the plant in a single day. They brave a temperature of 10 degrees below freezing to walk through the corridor lined with ice-encased rarities of the deep.

Heavenly Bodies in Collision

Collisions between heavenly bodies are not unusual; in fact they are occurring all the time in the vast spaces of the universe, although one would imagine that there was sufficient room in the limitless heavens to accommodate all without interference.

"Powder Puff" Slap Brings $1,000,000 Suit

Los Angeles, Nov. 17. (AP)—Mary McCormick's potent slap of the woman-an biographer of Prince Serge Melvinsk, former husband of the opera singer, had an echo today in a threat by Miss Grace Williams, recipient of the blow, to file a $1,000,000 damage suit against Miss McCormick.

S. S. Hahn, attorney who said he had been retained by Miss Williams to file the damage suit, stated he would confer with the district attorney today on the possibility of issuing a complaint charging assault.

A outraged feelings and the damage I have received through unpleasant publicity demand that I file the suit," said Miss Williams. "I don't believe I should allow that woman to get away with an assault upon me."

Miss McCormick slapped Miss Williams in the editorial offices of a Los Angeles newspaper Wednesday night. The writer had appeared there to dispose of what she said were "accents" of the property settlement between Miss McCormick and her former husband when they were divorced last Tuesday.

SAMSONVILLE

Samsonville, Nov. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gundberg and family moved last week from Pataskunk to this neighborhood to the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Palen.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palen started Wednesday afternoon on their annual motor trip to Florida, where they will spend the winter. They have spent the winters in Florida for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keator are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a baby boy at the Kingston Hospital. Mother and baby are getting along nicely.

Mrs. William Chambers and son, Clyde, of Union Grove, Delaware county, are spending some time with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Barringer.

Mrs. Sylvia Barringer and Hazel Barringer made a business trip to Kerhonkson on Monday.

Henry Sheldon shot a big buck deer near the Winchell district schoolhouse and Cecil Krom got one in the vicinity of Palentown.

Election day passed off at the hall much as usual. Everyone came to vote and then stayed for dinner and to visit with old friends and neighbors. The Ladies' Aid Society served a very appetizing dinner and supper.

The Ladies' Aid held its most recent meeting at the home of Mrs. John Keider, the first Thursday in November. After the business meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. They consisted of sandwiches, banana whipped cream cake, cookies and coffee.

The funeral of Mrs. Homer Traver, which was held at the M. E. Church at Samsonville Saturday afternoon, was largely attended by friends and relatives. The many floral offerings were beautiful. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family.

POLITICS at Random

NOTHING else President Roosevelt has done challenges the imagination quite so sharply as his creation of the civil works administration, designed to hire the unemployed wholesale, pay them to work at all sorts of odd jobs, and pay them out of government money.

In its scope the plan is fully as ambitious as the most ambitious plan ever made for the NRA. It is proposed to have no fewer than 1,000,000 men in the pay of this new agency by mid-December.

In its theory of operation it departs as widely from the accepted notions of the past as did the processing taxes or the sale of power from Muscle Shoals.

The fact that so momentous a step could be taken without attracting greater attention than it did is proof how far the nation has gone along the road toward a new conception of the functions of government.

Studying The Pendulum

THE word being passed by regular leaders to their workers is one of continued patience over the victory of November 7.

Now the anti-progressive feeling is on the defensive. They know they will be asked to a post-mortem public to provide some reason better than protest.

There is a keen realization that when the pendulum of public opinion swings violently and quickly in one direction some sort of reaction follows naturally.

For that reason great pains will be taken to find out just why South Carolina went dry. Inside reports of the repealers showed North Carolina probably dry, but not South Carolina.

The leaders think something important happened there just before the election. They want to know whether the pendulum actually began its backward swing before November 7.

The New York Election

PROBABLY very few in the west and south were much excited about New York city's election campaign.

B. BRONX PRICE
Editor of Bronx, The Associated Press, Washington

Just for it may have been that voters in these far sections had a great deal at stake after all.

For what happened was this: A democratic movement against Tammany, with substantial Wall Street backing failed to elect an independent democratic mayor leaving Tammany in control of whatever party machinery remained.

An independent opposition, Mr. LaGuardia, who under other circumstances might have been considered a likely rival for the democratic nomination, reported that he had been dropped by the opposition of Roosevelt supporters.

It was not until an interested LaGuardia contacted at city hall and an interested Tammany holding numerous supporters, where the Roosevelt party had standing was that the election was not so good in New York city, and more and more attention should be given to winning the election in the west and south.

USE NOTED GERMAN

CASTLES AS JAILS

Political Opponents of Hitler

Held in Them.

Dresden.—Germany's medieval castles with their awe-inspiring strongholds are again serving as prisons, this time for the political opponents of the Hitler regime. The fact is admitted in the official organ of the Hitler party, Voelkische Beobachter.

Castle Hohnstein in Saxony, one of Germany's proudest and oldest castles, was converted into a prison for political offenders by the present power holders. Perched high upon a steep and rocky eminence, with its drawbridges and heavy gates closely guarded by storm troops, the castle offers no chance for the alleged foes of the Hitlerite state to make their escape.

Once, in bygone days, the haughty ruler Baron von Muehlberg pillaged and ransacked the surrounding country from this impregnable stronghold. In 1533 Castle Hohnstein passed into the possession of Hinko Herka von der Duba, a powerful feudal lord whose landed property stretched far into Bohemia. In 1443 the castle was purchased by the Wettin family, electors of Saxony. The Saxon rulers made it one of their favorite retreats, hunting deer and fishing salmon in the mountainous vicinity.

In 1837 its glamour dimmed somewhat when the proud castle was converted into a reformatory. After the World War, in 1924, it was turned into an inn.

Its beautiful location, in the midst of the so-called Saxon Switzerland, made it a favorite traveling goal for youthful hikers. In its hundred bedrooms the castle could put up 800 guests for the night.

With everything in Germany being co-ordinated with the Hitler regime, a number of German castles once owned by feudal lords were taken over by the Nazis. Thus Castle Neuenburg on Unstrut was occupied by the Hitlerites Fighting League for German Culture. Castle Sachsenburg, near Zschopau in Saxony, has been converted into a school for National Socialist women leaders, and Hohnstein became a prison.

SOFTER LIGHTS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THESE cooler nights And kinder days, These softer lights And autumn haze, Are like the years Of later life, After the tears And joy and strife.

Less red the flow'rs, Less green the grass, But quiet hours In peace we pass, Though gone the May, The summer spent, We are less gay But more content.

In spring we fear The thought of fall, But autumn here, Mind not at all; For living wisdom No fairer page Than softer lights And quiet age.

Do YOU Know—

That the manufacture of bricks is over 6000 years old. It is said that Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon 604-561 B. C., had his name stamped on every brick used in the building of his colossal palaces.

"Don't Give Up the Ship"

Capt. James Lawrence of the U. S. Frigate Chesapeake used the words "Don't Give Up the Ship" as he lay on the deck mortally wounded during an engagement with the British Frigate Shannon June 1, 1813, off Boston. These words became famous and a group of ladies sewed them on a flag for Commodore Perry's flagship, Lawrence, for his use in his later campaign. This flag was afterwards sent to the Navy department and then transferred to Memorial Hall at the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Women's Faces on Stamps

Queen Isabella appears on three varieties of the Cuban commemorative series of 1898; Martha Washington's portrait appears on the eight cent stamp of the 1902 series, also on the four cent issue of 1922-23; and Pocahontas appears on the five cent denomination of the Jamestown series of 1907. Other women have appeared in designs from time to time but have remained unnamed.

Some Sharks Have Extra Teeth

There are some species of sharks that might well be objects of envy to humans beings for they have reserve sets of teeth to take the place of others as soon as they wear out. Some of these possess as many as 6,000 teeth set in rows, only one row being used at a time, however. When one set wears out another set, already developed, moves forward to take its place.

The Welsh

The Welsh are, in the main, the modern representatives of an ancient Celtic people which occupied the southern part of Britain. These sought the more fertile regions of the island when the invaders came. They are far from being an extinct stock, however. The name Welsh is akin to that of an old tribe of Gaul. It carried the Germanic language with the meaning of "The sign."

Senator Walton, Chairman of City Campaign, Says Campaign Will Go On Until Kingston's Share Is Raised.

The work of raising Kingston's quota of $5,000 toward the support of scouting in the Ulster-Orange County is being continued by Senator Charles W. Walton, chairman of the city campaign, assisted by a company of volunteer workers. Senator Walton met with a number of men who had volunteered to finish the work at the scout office Monday evening and they agreed to put their shoulders to the wheel and finish the job. About 500 prospect cards remained unprocessed at the close of the official campaign and the intention is to call upon every prospect. The senator made the following statement:

"Kingston will continue working until her share has been raised. It is to be regretted that, for various reasons, we were unable to have the entire amount subscribed during the time we had set for ourselves. But, this only increases our determination to do the part we have taken as our share."

Many of the campaign workers have already volunteered to see those prospects who were not seen during the campaign week.

"We all realize that scouting must continue its boy-training program and that adequate financing is an absolute necessity. It pleases all of us to see other communities in our two counties steadily passing their goals. It is up to us to see to it that Kingston takes her place on this Honor Roll of scout supporting communities."

Ambulance Calls Here.

Thursday the ambulance removed three Washington avenue residents to the hospital. Elizabeth Waterman from 422 Washington avenue to the Kingston Hospital; Katherine Reynolds from 405 Washington avenue to the Benedictine Hospital; John Fullerton from 411 Washington avenue to the Kingston Hospital, and Marian Kressler from 61 Smith avenue to the Kingston Hospital.

Dr. Crispell Sets Record at Duke

Former Kingston Resident Flies at Durham to Make Hospital Consultation by Airplane—Enjoys Success in New York.

Dr. Raymond S. Crispell, formerly of Kingston, and now a neuro-psychiatrist at Duke Hospital, Durham, N. C., the other day completed what is believed to have been the first hospital consultation ever to be made from Durham by airplane.

"Dr. Crispell," says the Durham Morning Herald, "piloted by Dr. R. J. Reeves, also of the hospital staff, flew to Danville, Va., for the consultation in less time than it often takes for a cross-town call by motor."

"As Durham provides no airport facilities, the two doctors were forced to begin the flight from Chapel Hill, where Dr. Reeves keeps his airplane. The trip to Chapel Hill was made by motor."

"Dr. Reeves is desirous of obtaining an airport or a landing field here in order that he might keep his two planes in Durham."

While a resident of Kingston, Dr. Crispell was very much interested in aviation and made a number of trips to the south by plane. The doctor left here to conduct a series of lectures and clinics which are being largely attended not only by assigned students in Durham hospitals but by members of the nursing staffs and doctors. Consultation services are being demanded of Dr. Crispell not alone in Durham and other communities of North Carolina but in cities of neighboring states.

All bears are not vicious. The American black bear is no more dangerous to a hunter than a hog of the same size would be.

Lake Katrine Grange Wins Ulster County
Dramatic Contest

The Ulster County Dramatic Contest ended Thursday night with the showing of the remaining plays in the competition at Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

An elimination contest is held each year for county entrants and then a play-off is held between counties adjacent to Ulster. This year the other counties entering are Dutchess, Columbia, Delaware and Saratoga. Ulster is the entertaining county, so the final contest will be held Saturday, November 25, at 2 p. m.

Plattekill Grange and Lake Katrine Grange competed last Tuesday at the Clintondale Grange Hall and last night the contestants were Ulster Park Grange and Emma Wygant School 4-H Club, the latter presenting an original play by a 15-year-old member.

The winners were announced at the close of the evening by I. C. Barnes, chairman of the contest, being the Lake Katrine Grange. Play-ers in the play entitled "Day by Day" by Paul Greene. The characters:

George Harris.....Daniel Monahan
Mrs. Harris.....Eva Frederick
Mary Harris.....Mildred Davis
Jane Harris.....Elizabeth Davis
Teb Aiken.....Gwynne Thomas

Directed by Mrs. Donald Parrish. Dramatic committee of Lake Katrine Grange, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hendricks and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parrish.

This group will now compete with the winners from the above named counties and all interested in amateur dramatics are invited to attend the play-off on November 25. A small admission is charged to help defray expenses. The winners on November 25 play at Cornell University later in the year.

Shirt Workers Enjoyed Dance

Tuneful music supplied by Paul A. Zucca and his band was enjoyed last night by shirt workers who attended the gathering at the headquarters of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. Solo selections were given by Mr. Zucca and others of his band to the great delight of the audience.

Robert F. Browning gave a short address during the intermission praising the efforts of the shirt workers to organize a union. He believed that the methods used by the Amalgamated in unionizing workers will win the good will of the community.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT CHURCH OF REDEEMER

A special service will be held at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer Sunday morning when the Rev. Fred Heins, missionary to Japan, supported by the Luther League of America will speak. The Luther League of the local church will help to conduct the service. The Luther League of America pledged $15,000 for the erection of a main building which includes a chapel, for the use of the Lutheran Theological Seminary. There are 19 theological students enrolled at that seminary. The United Lutheran Church has 39 missionaries at work there.

At the evening service the pastor, the Rev. E. O. Brandorff will begin a new series of sermons on "Interviews With the Uninformed With False Hopes," dealing Sunday evening with the problem of those who say "I'm Good Enough. I don't need your religion."

The birthday party and congregational reception celebrating the 15th anniversary of the United Lutheran Church will be held Thursday, November 23, at 8 p. m.

The Uptown Circle will meet Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Samuel J. Messinger, Monday evening.

The annual Loyalty Sunday services will be held Sunday, November 26. The annual memorial service in honor of the members who died during the past church year will be held in the evening. The annual Every-Member Visitation will be held from Sunday, November 26 to December 3.

Like many another fortress city Jerusalem was built originally upon a rocky hill top. That made it comparatively easy to defend it against direct attack in the days before gunpowder, or artillery of any description.

Kander's Pedigreed
Leghorns Get Honors

Once again the Pedigreed Leghorns owned and bred by Irving Kander of New Paltz bring honors to Ulster county. This time it is the pens entered in the various egg laying contests throughout the United States. The latest reports received show their standing to be as follows:

First place over all breeds—Horseheads.

First place over all breeds—Stafford.

First place over all breeds. First and second place for Leghorns (2 pens)—Storrs, Conn.

These egg laying contests under the official management of the various state colleges are the most keen of any competition known. They are the proving grounds of production poultry and are competitive to birds from all parts of the world.

It is believed that this achievement has never before been attained by any breeder in the country and it is not only a compliment to the thorough breeding program practiced by Mr. Kander, but also brings the merits of this section as a healthy poultry raising center to the attention of the entire poultry world.

Clarence VanDerzee Neighbors Testify Had an Icy Bath At Gaines Trial

Clarence Van Derzee, 24, a negro employed at the Kingston Hospital, stood up there Thursday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock as a patient when he was pulled from the icy waters of the Rondout creek by Gary Krug, an employee of the Philadelphia ferry, who saw Van Derzee struggling in the water. Van Derzee was fully clothed when pulled out of the water but gave no reason to Officer Welch as to how he happened to land in the water. Dr. A. A. Stern was called when Van Derzee was pulled to the dock and had the man removed to the hospital in the ambulance. Today it was stated that Van Derzee had fully recovered from his icy bath and would return to his home, 65 East Pierpont street.

GENEROUS

A mean man ate a meal at a restaurant and, when he had finished, dropped a half-dollar on the floor. "Waiter," he said, as he paid his bill, "I just dropped two half-dollars. Find them, will you?" The waiter disappeared under the table, and in a short time emerged very red in the face. "I've found one of them, sir," he said. "Thanks," said the man, as he pocketed the coin and rose. "When you find the other keep it for yourself. Tip, you know."

SOMBER NOTES

Hubby—I don't like women wearing colors. Wife—All right, love. I'll gladly wear black for you.

Spilling the Beans

A man was a witness in a hog-stealing case. He seemed to be stretching a point or two in favor of the accused, and the prosecuting attorney said:

"Do you know the nature of an oath?"

"Sure."

"Do you know you are not to bear false witness against your neighbor?"

"I'm not bearin' false witness agin him, I'm bearin' false witness for him."

Modernist Spelling

A little miss who is just about to enter school was out motoring with her parents a few evenings ago. She always rides in the front seat with her father and is regarded as precocious in observation. One of her delights is following the changing hues of the traffic signals.

"Daddy," she shouted, "I know how to spell green."

"How, dear?"

Another Sale Lost

"I have here," said the man at the door, "an extremely useful little article. It is a combined can opener, screwdriver, pocketknife, glasscutter, tackhammer and—"

"That's enough. I don't want it."

"Why not?"

"Well, by keeping all those tools separate, it is impossible for my husband to lose more than one at a time."

Is for It

"Darling," she said, "when we are married you'll have a woman in the house who knows how to cook."

"Well," said darling, "that's pleasant news. I didn't know that you were expert in the cooking line."

"I'm not," she replied, "but when we are married mother is coming to live with us."

ALL OVER

Wife—I guess we had better change hotels. Hubby—Why? Wife—Everybody at this hotel has seen my gowns and heard my monologue.

That for Him

"It bores me to have to listen to these after-dinner speakers," he growled. "That isn't any worse than having to listen to an after-dinner grumbler, the way I do, when the meals don't suit you," she retorted.

Had His Day

Householder—So you're an ex-sergeant major, are you? Were you ever out at the front? Trump—Oh, yes, ma'am—it's only lately I've got so thin.

To Be Demonstrated

Miss Kate (at the football game)—Tell me, Jack, what is a squeeze play? Escort—Oh, it would take too long to explain it here. I'll drop around this evening and show you.

Pa Knows Everything

"Pa," said Junior, "what is a crying need?" "A handkerchief and a comfort to repair the damage done by the tears, son," replied his dad.

Snakes Look Like Twigs

Usually the winter hibernation of animals is accompanied by concealment; but this is not always true of the water snakes of Louisiana. These reptiles hibernate in swamps and may often be seen lying on the bottom like so many dead twigs.

Alleged Kidnap Chief Takes Defense Stand

Government Will "Bear Down" on Alibi Witnesses in Trial of Roger Touhy. Mamm Kidnap Suspect—Several Defense Statements Come From Pacific Coast.

St. Paul, Nov. 17 (AP)—The defense today on the wall of evidence reared from testimony of the witnesses to the kidnapping and slaying of William Hamm, Jr., millionaire St. Paul brewer.

Warning has been served by the government through Joseph B. Keenan, special government prosecutor, however, that the prosecution will watch closely all alibi witnesses, and will go down the line with any person giving untruthful testimony.

Roger Touhy, claimed by the government to be the leader of the men who abducted Hamm, will take the stand in his own defense before the trial ends. William Scott Stewart, chief defense counsel, has announced.

Today, however, depositions were to be submitted to the jury in Judge M. M. Joyce's federal court designed to show that Gustav "Loomy" Loomis, a St. Paul attorney from 1915 to 1920, is or later. All were taken from persons living in Hollywood, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Former Communist Testifies on "Revolt"

Berlin, Nov. 17 (AP)—A former Communist functionary, Otto Grothe, testified in the German Reichstag building fire trial today that the Communist party was ready for an armed uprising in February.

The fire, which damaged the German building heavily, occurred in the night of February 27, and the prosecution charged a Communist plot lay behind the arson. Five men now are accused of treason and are on trial for their lives as a result.

Grothe said the Communists were held in a constant state of alarm after Adolf Hitler's appointment as chancellor on January 30.

Further, he testified, Communist undergrounds ordered the distribution of arms among the members just four days before the fire.

Grothe said he recalled that an acquaintance, another Communist named Kemper, carried fuel for the fire to the building and delivered it to Blagoi Popoff, one of three Bulgarians among the defendants.

Catskill Now Has A Mystery Girl

Officer Fitzsimmons of the Catskill police department called up the Kingston police department Thursday night and stated that they had a mystery girl in the hospital there and that all she could remember was that she had been on Hasbrouck avenue in Kingston. Officer Brophy, who was acting desk sergeant, immediately called the case of Sadie Pagano of Marlborough, who was in the Kingston Hospital for several days and address until Dr. L. E. Sanford decided on using an electric battery to shock her memory. One shock from the battery proved sufficient at that time. Officer Brophy got in touch with the Pagano family at Marlborough and learned that the girl was not home. He advised the Catskill police that the mystery girl they had was possibly the Pagano girl.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Stocks and staples were inclined to take a breathing spell today, after their sharp advance of yesterday, but only small portions of the advance generally were yielded under profit-taking efforts.

Although the price of domestic gold was again unchanged, the British pound rallied about 5 cents to $5.21 and French francs recovered 45 of a cent at 6.65 cents. Both, however, gave up most of their gains later. Gold mining shares were a little heavy, and a few of the alcohol stocks slipped, but most other equities held to a fractional range. Grains and cotton were a bit easier, as were some of the other commodities. U. S. government bonds were slightly lower in quiet trading.

Shares of American Telephone, Continental, National, American and John-Macmillan gained a point each and improvement was shown by American, Van, Chrysler, Western Union, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Oil of New Jersey. Steel preferred lost 3 and National Steel, U. S. Smelting and Molten Ore, Pottersville 2. Minor declines were registered by General Motors, U. S. Steel Common, International Nickel, Goodyear, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, North American and General Foods. Alaska Juneau and Ceral de Pazo were about a point.

French Must Pay Duty on Salt Water From Sea

Water cannot be taken out of the sea in France without offending against an ancient customs regulation covering the importation of salt, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph. The question was raised by a proposal to bring sea water to Paris in a pipeline for boiling purposes.

A resident in Marseilles recalls the snowfall last winter in this city. The snow melted and the water was so salty that it was only by rare occasions that they have to deal with a problem of this kind in the Mediterranean port.

The problem was elegantly solved by the mayor, who, on being reminded that salt is watered in the streets of Paris on such occasions, had all the municipal water carts filled with sea water from the Old Port. This water, it was discovered, soon washed away the snow.

But there was an unexpected sequel. The customs authorities warned the mayor that he would be summoned for extracting salt from the sea without paying the customs dues. No further action was taken, however, for the mayor found an ingenious answer.

"It is true that we brought salt water ashore without permission," he declared, "but please remember that it all went back into the harbor by way of the sewers."

Private Tokens Issued During the Civil War

A coin the size of a penny, dated 1903, bearing on one side the American flag with the inscription "The flag of our Union," and on the other, "If anybody attempts to tear it down, shoot him on the spot," and the word "Dix" in the center, is known as a Civil war token.

From 1861 to 1864 the dearth of small coins gave rise to an enormous private issue of tokens and merchants' cards. The former bore inscriptions giving vivid expressions to the partisan slogans of the day, while the other bore simply the advertisement of the merchants who issued them. It was estimated that not less than 25,000,000 of these private tokens were issued throughout the eastern and middle western states until the government, by an act of congress in 1864, put a stop to their issue.

The name "Dix" in the center of a token is for the American general and statesman, John Adams Dix, who was secretary of the treasury from January 11 to March 4, 1861.

Windows 6,000 Years Old

While excavating the site of Persepolis in Persia, archeologists observed a low mound in the plain about two miles away. This little mound, when excavated, says the National Geographic Magazine, proved to be the oldest Stone Age village yet discovered in the Orient. It dates from about 4000 B. C. Its walls, 6 or 7 feet high, contain the earliest windows of which we have any knowledge. Some of these walls were painted with red ochre, and on the floors of the rooms were found pottery vessels decorated in painted patterns of lovely design—the earliest painted pottery yet discovered. In some of the vessels were found flint knives, with which the inhabitants ate their last meal. Even the picked bones of the animals they last ate still remained in some of the dishes. A narrow, winding "main street" winds through the center of this village. Here around 4000 B. C. dwelt the ancestors of those all-powerful Persians who 3,500 years later lived in the capital city of Ispahan, and whose royal family luxuriated at Persepolis, its Potsdamlike suburb.

Famous Woman Spy Shot

The famous German spy known as Frauella Doktor first came under the notice of the Russian secret service in Vienna in 1908. She was under observation in England in 1912. At the beginning of the war she rendered valuable assistance to Hindenburg in his campaign against the Russians in eastern Prussia. During the Russian retreat an officer of the Russian secret service saw and recognized her as the woman spy of Vienna. She was immediately arrested and shot. It is stated that the German victorious cavalry entered the town just 20 minutes too late to save her.

Fingerprinting

Fingerprinting is as simple as reading large, black numerals, according to a fingerprint expert. "For instance," he says, "we tell a print left by a negro from that of a white man by the size of the pore. We tell a feminine print from that of a man by the coarseness of the lines. The female print has a much finer line. Then, to get right down to personalities, we class each print into its distinct group and in its group the individual print stands right out as conspicuously as the group itself—simple, isn't it?"

Dreams Are Speedy

Scientists have conducted various experiments to demonstrate the rapidity with which a dream takes place. In one instance the sprinkling of a few drops of water on a man's face caused a dream in which the events of a whole lifetime passed before him. The whole process took but a second or two of time. The great rapidity of dreams is due to the fact that in the unconscious state all the individual's life experiences are on view as if in one flash.

Tides in Rivers

The Amazon river is perceptibly affected by the tides as far up as the town of Obidos, some 600 miles from the mouth. The Mississippi river is tidal to Red River Landing, Pointe Coupee Parish, La., 207 miles above the mouth.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Nov. 17.—Although William Holloway, the Moonshaker, has been arrested, the law proved hampered in getting to the bottom of the matter about the east of the town of Shokan and Palenstown. The Donahoe and Burger brothers of Krumville were among the successful vendors, according to reports to the reported dozens of hills made around Moonshaker.

Edward Every of Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Holloway, injured seriously when buried in the truck he was driving beneath a road slide in July, 1932, and subsequently spending several months recently in Presbyterian Hospital, New York city, where two toes were removed, has returned to that institution for another amputation.

Former neighbors and old-time acquaintances of the west side sympathized most feelingly with Mrs. Jane Gulnae, now of Ashokan, who recently sustained serious and painful injuries in a fall at her home. Mrs. Gulnae has for years been ill with diabetes.

Mrs. Joseph Mooney of Kingston visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every, at her childhood home on Wednesday. Watson Riskey and Aaron Vandebogart of Wittenberg, well-known dairyman and cattle dealers of that locality, were business callers at West Shokan Heights on Thursday afternoon.

Donald Bishop of Hartwick College, Oneonta, is expected home for the week-end on a periodical visit with his grandmother, Mrs. Watson Bishop.

John Bell, Broadhead Heights dairy farmer, died at the hill to Wittenberg Thursday where he proceeded to swap Jersey critters with Aaron Vandebogart.

After a bit of a wait on the part of the school collectors, their depleted treasuries are being replenished by New York city's tax payments. The five cent fees added will tend to bring a welcome bit of Christmas cheer to the personal fortunes of some 15 school district collectors thus agreeably affected. The fees range from 25 to 50 odd dollars each, according to the proportionate levies.

The condition of Chase Davis, veteran West Shokan Heights farmer, ill for some time past, is showing no marked improvement, although he is able to be about the house.

Oliver Bridge's busiest place these winter days is Pete Crawford's garage, where the genial Pete keeps on the double-check servicing customers with the requisites for winter driving. Unexpected repair jobs coming in add their quota to the awakened swirl of industry.

Supervisor Chet Lyons of Ashokan, who is ending his fourth straight term as Oliver's chief executive, is now attending the annual sessions of the county legislators. Chet, as his many Oliver constituents call him, has held the job down well, and always to the interest of his town's welfare.

The cold weather effectively put a stop to the windup of the left over docking work from the August flood. However, the gasoline shagel operated by Mr. Grunner, burrowing a channel in the rock strewn Bushkill bed, is still carrying on.

Passenger Pigeon Has Disappeared From U. S.

It is difficult to reconcile the fact that so far as is known not a single living specimen of passenger pigeon exists anywhere in the country today with accounts of their abundance less than a century ago, observes a writer in the Detroit News.

This pigeon, a bird 16 inches long with a ruddy breast, but gray back and a pointed tail, is said to have been so numerous in the early days of the United States that at times the flocks covered the entire view for hours at a stretch. They were so plentiful in 1800 that flights were visible almost constantly at all hours of the day during periods of migration, authorities say, and when roosting at night their weight broke down large branches and even small trees.

An old nesting site of these birds near Shelbyville, Ky., covered an area several miles wide and 40 miles long, while there is record of a pigeon nesting place 25 miles long and 3 or 4 miles wide in Michigan in 1870.

The fact that advantage was taken of the gregarious habits of these birds by hunters seeking to kill them in large numbers is thought to have been largely responsible for their extinction. What is supposed to have been the last survivor of the passenger pigeon race died in the Zoological gardens of Cincinnati in 1914.

Formation of Oil
Mineral oil or petroleum is stored in the earth in sands, which are embedded between layers of rock through which the oil cannot pass. When wells are bored into this sand, the oil rises in the wells. There are two main theories as to its origin. The inorganic theory holds that the hydrogen and carbon contained in rocks of the earth have been brought together under great heat and pressure to form these oils. The more widely accepted organic theory holds that it has been formed, like coal, from pre-existing animal and vegetable life, chiefly microscopic marine and swamp life, under enormous pressure.

Oldest Living Things
The oldest living things on the earth are the giant redwood trees in California.

Great Dane Is Not as Fierce as He Appears

The absolute fierceness of the Great Dane's appearance is not due to the expression of his eyes; they are intelligent and vivacious, lacking the hardness of the ferret. Nor is it attributed to the clean, well-arched neck, snublike in its carriage, supporting a large, powerful and excellently modeled head. Nor to the elegantly outlined massive form that combines the grace of the greyhound with the almost tigerlike power of the mastiff. His high leg action effecting a like, free and springy gait is far from fierce, as is the graceful carriage of his strong tail that suffers serious injury when it strikes with force, obstacles encountered on its pendulous swing of happiness.

None of these is responsible; the vital point of deception is the cropped ears. No less beautiful, Great Danes with wide flapping ears possess a friendlier and more gentle appearance.

It is Germany that lays greatest claim to the dog's development, in forming the new German empire in 1870, dog lovers of the patriotic populace, craving an emblematic national dog, selected, because of his elegance and power, the Deutsche Dogge, or Great Dane as he is still known in the English-speaking countries.

His origin is obscure. However, representatives of a breed sufficiently similar to be his ancestors, are to be found on the oldest Egyptian monuments. Most claims suggest the Irish wolfhound and mastiff as foundation, but all claims are still questionable as is the derivation of the name Dane. It can be assumed only that at some time or other he was a Danish breed.—Los Angeles Times.

Pawpaw Contains More Protein Than Banana

The pawpaw (custard apple) grows wild in the woodlands in some sections of the country. In flavor and general character it resembles tropical fruits much more than fruits commonly grown in temperate climates. In many respects it resembles the cherimoya (a Mexican and West Indies product) and the soursop of Florida. The creamy-white flesh which melts in your mouth has a rich, most delicious flavor, which suggests a sort of glorified banana, although far superior to the latter in flavor.

The pawpaw is superior to other fruits, according to an authority, in the amount of protein it contains which is four times that of the banana. The flesh is soft with no fiber and requires no mastication. It has never been extensively cultivated though there is no reason why it shouldn't be. The tree grows rather rapidly and attains a height of about 30 feet. The flowers in spring resemble those of the wine-colored blossoms of the wild ginger. The fruit resembles an over-stuffed banana, first green and then turning brown in fall. The first slip of frost imparts a delicate flavor to the fruit and this is the best time to eat it. The wood of the pawpaw has little commercial value being light and soft and subject to rapid deterioration.

The Word "Process"

The preferred pronunciation of the term "process" is proven—as in not, says the Literary Digest. The plural is formed by adding es, but the accent is not shifted. The pronunciation "pro-cess" is an affectation without standing. A secondary pronunciation is preferred in England, but the Universal English Dictionary, published in London, which aims to give the pronunciation common to and preferred at Oxford university, does not recognize a plural form with stress of the third syllable, nor the pronunciation of the termination as as ess in process.

Where Spices Come From
Many of the world's spices come from Singapore's outlying groves, cinnamon and clove plantations and vineyards which produce white and black pepper berries. Coconuts and coffee beans grow abundantly on this verdant land. Being near the equator, the sun rises and sets at the same time throughout the year. The air is fragrant with the odor of growing spices and the temperature is always like that of moist July. The Southern Cross, most famous of constellations, is visible there and natives claim that no night is as beautiful as one of Singapore's.

Totem Poles Used in Florida
The average person usually thinks of totem poles in connection with Alaska or the Far North, yet a genuine eagle totem rudely shaped from heart pine was unearthed in south Florida. The specimen was found near the south bank of Fishcreek creek, about four miles on a line west of Lake Okechobee. The exact spot where it was found is 100 feet east of a large Indian mound called Fort Center, in Glades county, Florida.—Scientific American.

Plane Like Bat

One of the curious flying machines of the early 1800's was constructed in imitation of a bat, with a frame below for carrying the driving power and the load. The wings, made of bamboo, covered with silk, were made to contract and given a rocking motion. A means of propelling this machine by an electric current from lines on the ground dispensed with the weight of batteries. Of course, no great distance could be covered.

India Home of Diamond
India was the original home of the diamond as a jewel. For centuries India remained the sole source of Europe's diamond supply. Diamonds were discovered in Brazil in 1729 and in South Africa in 1867. Now South Africa furnishes 70 per cent of the world's supply.

Predictions On Grid Contests For Saturday

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Another banner array of big time games, complicated by tradition and all the uncertainties that traditional rivalries bring, presents the puzzled football fans some nice problems this week. On the basis of what has occurred so far, the prospects for the major clashes line up something like this:

Yale-Colgate—A slight leaning toward Colgate can be explained by the team's apparent superiority on the attack.

Michigan-Minnesota—The crucial battle for Michigan's undefeated and untied Wolverine who rate a narrow edge on the rested Gophers.

Illinois-Nebraska—Their own national aspirations wrecked, the Pitt Panthers hope to wreck Nebraska's perfect record and look slightly stronger in this clash of evenly matched eleven.

Georgia-Auburn—Most football observers are content to string along with Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs. Southern California-Oregon. This is no tougher one on the list. The weak offense the Trojans have shown so far gives the northwest outfit an all but invincible edge.

Princeton-Navy—Princeton's unbeaten Tigers rule pronounced favorites, and deservedly so.

Purdue-Iowa—The Bollweckers should win but Iowa undoubtedly will put up a strenuous argument.

Duke-North Carolina—The records point to another triumph for unbeaten Duke.

Colgate-Syracuse—Syracuse has been too inconsistent this season to warrant any prediction for a victory over Colgate.

Chicago-Illinois—The Illini look far superior.

Tulane-Kentucky—Tulane has played winning football since it stopped fumbling and the Greenies are favored.

Washington-U. C. L. A.—This Washington outfit beat Stanford at home and was trounced 23-0 by Caltech at Berkeley. The U. C. L. A. game at Seattle, inspires a timid caliber for Washington.

Hartwick-Cornell—Old rivals these two teams apparently the better team this season.

Northwestern-Notre Dame—A tie looks like the best bet in this match between fumbling, uncertain eleven. Notre Dame's running attack, at least as far as the 10-yard line, is more powerful.

Harvard-Brown—A close game in prospect but may be this is the spot for Harvard to begin to click.

Georgia Tech-Alabama—Unbeaten in the South, Alabama rates the favorite in this position.

Indiana-Penn.—It doesn't look now as if Indiana could stop the champion team.

Texas-Christian—An important clash in the top-heavy South.

Yale-Colgate—The contest will be a close one, with Yale slightly ahead.

Yale-Colgate—The contest will be a close one, with Yale slightly ahead.

Kingston Stars Are Ready for Match on Sunday at Emerick's

Manager Pete Kerevman of the Kingston Stars, the team that likely will represent this city in the Hudson Valley Bowling League which is being planned, today said that his players are ready for their match with Frank Bailey's Fire Flies of New York City at Emerick's Sunday evening, starting at 8 o'clock.

On Kerevman's list are Homer Emerick, Harry Styles, Bill Thiel, Fred Rice, Ed Modjeska, Ken Williams and himself. This combination is considered by those who closely follow the sport of bowling as one of the best that could be rounded up for league competition.

It is expected that there will be a large turnout on hand to cheer the Kingston Stars on to victory Sunday.

Sunday afternoon there will be a meeting in regard to completing plans for the Hudson Valley League. Last week the first move was made to get the league started. The following cities were interested and attended the meeting: Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Beacon, Middletown and Walden.

Colgate, Syracuse Clash Closes Upstate Football

By CHARLES LANG
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Colgate and Syracuse, playing the 37th game of their series, initiated 42 years ago, bring upstate football to its climax here on Saturday, while Canisius, Cornell, Hamilton, Hartwick, R. P. L., Rochester, St. Bonaventure, and Union ring down the curtain on their gridiron dramas.

Colgate will enter the classic far and away the favorite, although the Kermans record carries "scored on by N. Y. U. tied by Lafayette, and defeated by Tulane." Michigan State and Brown each have taken the measure of the Syracuse eleven, but the Huskies are rated stronger this year than in many previous seasons. Syracuse has not beaten Colgate since 1924.

Colgate, without a lay-off, enters the contest lacking the services of Captain Tisdale.

Every football camp in the state was handicapped this week by early and deep snowfall, which drove the players inside for blackboard drills and exercises.

Union vs. Hamilton

Canisius winds up its best season in years, against Dayton at Buffalo. Cornell, rested after a two-week gap between contests, seeks to snatch its first and last major victory of the year from Dartmouth at Hanover. Hamilton, assured of a rating as the best Buff and Blue in recent years, welcomes Union in the 41st game of their football rivalry dating back to 1890. Hamilton emphasized defense against passes. Union, blanked four times in a row before conquering Rochester, received only light workouts, and felt that a win from Hamilton would make its season satisfactory.

Rensselaer, preparing for Massachusetts State's invasion, also got light practice sessions. Completing their least successful season in eight years, the Rochester yellow jackets concentrated on a passing attack, in making ready for Wesleyan's visit. St. Bonaventure goes to Scranton to play St. Thomas. Hartwick confronts Mansfield at Mansfield. Niagara, concluding an off-and-on season, entertains Baltimore, on Sunday.

While Kingston is playing Raymond Riordon, Middletown will be playing Newburgh in the second DUSO game for each team. Newburgh goes into the array with a 20-12 victory over Port Jervis and Middletown answers back with a stinging 13-6 defeat by Kingston. If Newburgh should win this game, Newburgh and Kingston would enter the annual Thanksgiving classic on equal terms, the winner the champion of the DUSO League. However, Middletown is the favorite and will undoubtedly beat Newburgh by at least two touchdowns, which would make Kingston the potential winner of the DUSO League.

Spinnys Beat Bigelows, 50-22, To Play Goshen This Evening

Spinnys basketball team of Port Ewen scored its most decisive victory to date by drubbing the Saugerties Bigelows at Malden Thursday, 50-22, and tonight will try to extend its string of wins to four straight when it clashes with St. John's of Goshen at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen.

This evening's game is the regular weekly feature at Port Ewen and is expected to be packed with plenty of ginger and thrills for a band of spectators outnumbering the attendance for the other two games played in the hall across the creek. Preliminary to the main attraction there will be a contest between the Port Ewen Aces and Poughkeepsie Torosones. Following the games there will be a dance.

Last night's victory was the second of the season for Spinnys' over the Bigelows. A week ago they beat them in Port Ewen by the score of 31-22. Seven days prior to upsetting the Saugerties boys the Port Eweners marched the Middletown Roskins into camp, 38-20. Tonight they will try to make it four straight at the expense of the Goshen experts of the court. This, however, should prove a hard task, as the Saints are probably the best team that has been matched against the Spinnys so far. Last year the Goshenites took the Port Eweners over in two contests, one being the toughest experienced home.

In the lineup of the Goshen team are such outstanding players as Wittman, Stoll, Burr, Kane, Knight and Travers. Port Ewen will use its regular list of players as named in the box score of the game it won last night at Malden, which follows:

SPORT SLANTS By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

The deep south, our scouts report, has more gridiron rabbits this year than ever and that section has long been noted for its production of nimble backs who could fade from the arms of rugged tacklers.

Georgia's unbeaten Bulldogs have several light, speedy and versatile halfbacks who have been showing consistently brilliant as October slipped by. Homer Key is having a great year. This little halfback, now a senior, is as fast and elusive as ever. Cy Grant is another Georgia halfback, weighing around 167, who can outrace the fastest ends if they give him an opening.

Tulane's Backs

The Green Wave has nine triple threat backs of first string caliber. Johnny McDaniel, 193-pound quarterback, can run, punt, pass, block and tackle. Bucky Bryan, left halfback, is rated the finest sophomore prospect at Tulane since Don Zimmerman. He weighs only 162.

Barney Mintz, another sophomore, Little Preacher Roberts, versatile Tulane captain, and Little Monk Simons, a great kicking halfback, help round out the most deceptive offensive lineup in years at the New Orleans institution. Tulane has scored in 49 of its past 52 games.

Auburn's Plainsmen have a fine little running back in Casey Kimbrell. They also have one of the finest ends of the year in Gump Atrial and a strong tackle in Bat McCollum.

Georgia Tech has a well balanced line, one of the strongest in the south, although it would be hard to single out the best player from the group.

Hupke of Alabama is an outstanding guard.

Louisiana State has a wealth of material. Abe Mickal, a sophomore fullback, is a great kicker, fine passer and dangerous ball carrier.

Lone Survivor

For the first time in years, only one team in the deep south came to November unbeaten and untied. Georgia being the lone survivor. At that, the Bulldogs had a close run against Mercer, winning by a slim 13 to 12.

The familiar leaders of the past few years in that section—Tennessee, Auburn, Alabama, Tulane, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech—all have been beaten. Captain Biff Jones' Louisiana State Tigers have been twice tied. Football crowds in the south have been holding up well compared with previous years. Tulane and Auburn drew 23,000 at New Orleans; Auburn and Georgia Tech attracted the same number at Atlanta; Georgia and N. Y. U. brought in 25,000 at Athens; Centenary and L. S. U. drew 20,000 at Baton Rouge; Alabama and Tennessee played before 24,000 at Knoxville.

Relics of Vanished Nation

Sensational finds of gold ornaments and other relics of a vanished nation and race have been made in Africa on the Hill of Mystery, at Northern Transvaal. The people were known as the rhinoceros men.

Market Hunters Should Start Near Home

There ought to be at least one local manufacturer who can lay the foundation for future profits by reading this advertisement.

EVERY city is a good market for some products, but few products find good markets in all cities.

Thus, the careful manufacturer who relies upon economies to produce profits searches out the spots where local conditions favor the sale of his goods.

The home town may not always be a good market for the home manufacturer, BUT

The home market is a good place to investigate fully in any sales campaign:

First, because it can be easily and economically served.

Second, because it can be easily and economically captured — if you want it.

How captured?

By using persistent newspaper advertising as your most effective sales weapon.

Retailers will stock your product if you will advertise it locally in this newspaper. They know that newspaper-advertised goods are more than half sold before they put them in their windows, because their own customers read newspapers and newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising is and always has been the cheapest and most effective of all mediums. It reaches everybody who is reached by every other kind of advertising and many who are reached by no other kind.

Newspaper advertising gets to everybody every day — and gets there FIRST.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press
On Along, Lumber Men
WILMINGTON, O.—The overall length of the lumber season, and the delivery wagon and pull for Lumber
Whitehead is 17 feet, 10 inches.
Only a small amount about the ordinance—aimed at large trucks—limiting the length of parked vehicles to 15 feet, 6 inches.
"Can't you train her to turn her head toward the sidewalk to allow for the extra length?" asks Commissioner Boyle.
"No," says Whitehead, and there
the problem rests.

Was He Surprised?
Chicago—Police Detective Garrity
shows how to get his man.
Eduardo L. Ramos, accused by police of being a doctor, broke away from Garrity. The policeman fired one shot low.
The bullet struck the head of Dr.
Ramos' left shoe and knocked his feet from under him. He was unhurt.
His capture then became a simple matter.

Out of Luck
St. Paul—Two lucky rabbit foot charms were very unlucky for Emmet Johnson.
He found himself in the city jail
after police said he "killed" them along with other "jewelry" from a local five-and-ten-cent store.

Wrong Samaritan
Pittsburgh—Police captain M. F.
McKee says he likes to be helpful, but there are some requests he just has to refuse. In sub-freezing weather, two youths who didn't know him asked the captain to help them push an automobile that wouldn't start. He started to comply, took a look at the license and arrested the pair on charges of motor theft.

Hang Around the Campus Lutherville, Md.—The students at the Maryland College for Women have voluntarily "campused" themselves because one of them cannot find her diamond ring. It disappeared several days ago and the women agreed to remain on the campus until it is found.

Front Door Gets a Break Helena, Mont.—The front door of the Montana Statehouse, virtually unused for years, may soon serve the purpose for which it was built. The state civil works program calls for construction of a paved road around the building and a separate driveway to the front door. At present there is no parking space in front of the building and as a consequence the rear door has been used almost entirely.

Spring is Here
College Grove, Ore.—Winter, calendar insists is hardly more than a month away, but residents of this western Oregon city are enjoying either an advance or a throw-back of spring. Blackberries are ripening on the bush. A dogwood tree is in bloom. Wild violets are blossoming.
Roses have started to bloom again.

Soviet 'Godless Acres' Bare As Peasants Hold To Beliefs

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
Moscow (U. P.)—Soviet Russia's attempt to grow a "godless crop" this year has ended in dismal failure and aroused almost all leaders of the country to militant action.
Early last winter the All-Russian Godless Association, which promotes anti-religious work in Russia, organized a campaign among the collective farms for cultivation of small plots in addition to their regularly planted areas of cultivation in the state's work.

Peasants Start To Creed
These units were called "godless acres." The proceeds from them were to go to further the association's propaganda among the peasantry.
The majority of whom stubbornly
clung to their religious beliefs.

"But" began the association's official organ, "Godless," a weekly newspaper, "transmission to collective farms and the peasantry caused the loss of the godless crop and discredited
the work of the godless people."

The complaint was made other formal reports to the association's central control revealed the failure of the venture.

"We must reject real organization methods into the cultivation of godless acres in 1934," the paper concluded. "Personal responsibility for carrying out the work must be imposed on the presidents of local godless organizations and those breakdown must be designated in each cell to see to it."

Ask Volunteer Labor Under these circumstances few of the hard-headed Russian peasants bother to subscribe voluntarily to the following Marxist doctrine work which the godless newspapers winds up its call.

This task has a double importance. It provides additional sources for the food supply of workers on the one hand and, through the sale of grain to the government, establishes a material base for the increase of anti-religious propaganda in the villages on the other.

"The sowing of godless acres must be carried out on voluntary principles through the development of mass work."

will be modified as to when and where the rear rehearsal will be held. All members are requested to know their parts in the first and second acts. All are requested to be there on time.

Paradise on Earth
Allerton, Ill.—Residents of Stidell township say this place comes about as close to being a paradise on earth
as any.

Despite the drouth, chinch bugs,
and the financial recession there seems to be plenty of food for the poor as well as the rich.

In addition the jobless have been invited to dig their own fuel free of charge from the Hillside Strip Coal Mines.

Old Clothes
Lexington, S. C.—At least one little boy didn't wear out his best suit.
He was John Adams Summers, whose childhood garments, now 183 years old, were displayed at the county fair here. The suit was homemade in 1750.

FLATBUSH PIONEERS MEET

Flatbush, Nov. 17.—On November 13 the regular meeting of the Flatbush Pioneer 4-H Club was held at the school house at 7:30. The meeting was called to order by the president, Virginia Edinger. The secretary called the roll and all reported present except Carolyn Ryder and Wilma Jones. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved as read. The flag was saluted and the first stanza of "America" sung. Under new business the officers for this year were installed to their prospective offices.
They are as follows: Helen Anderson, president; Gladys Klothe, vice president; Helen Rappleyea, secretary.

The remainder of the meeting was in charge of the new president. The following officers were appointed by her: Song leader, Betty Ryder;
cheer leader, Anna Konluk; press
chairman, Virginia Edinger; Program committee, Ruth Burbans and Carolyn Ryder and one other.

After the adjournment the meeting was turned over to Miss H.
Thomas, the local leader, who gave the first lesson on "The Ensemble," which is the unit of work for this year.

Refreshments were served by Virginia Edinger assisted by Helen Anderson.

Rehearsal was then held for the play which will be given in the near future.

The next rehearsal was on November 15 at the home of Helen Anderson at 7:30 o'clock. Every member of the cast was present. Members were under the leadership of Miss Cheshire. After the rehearsal Miss Anderson served dainty refreshments.

The next 4-H meeting will be held on November 27 at the school house at 7:30 o'clock.

Temperance Union Meets at New Paltz

New Paltz, Nov. 17.—One of the most interesting meetings of the season of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held on Wednesday afternoon, November 15, at the home of Mrs. Etta Camp and her sister, Miss Carrie Johnston, at "Hillside-Wee" Cottage on upper Main street. In spite of the cold blustery weather there was a good attendance and a new member added to the union. At the appointed hour the president, Mrs. Ida Stephens, called the meeting to order and announced the devotion to be led by Mrs. Ella Butz, who requested a few moments silence.

Mrs. Morgan Cantant then offered prayer, after which Mrs. Butz read for the lesson, "Seeing a Great Light" and "Vision of Service" and closed the devotionals with prayer. The president officiated at the business session. The secretary called the roll. Each member responded with a scripture verse or a reading. The treasurer's report and reports of the directors were given. The president reported on the proceeds of the chow-mein and food sale as clearing over $21. Communications were read and acted upon.

The topic for the afternoon program was "Lives of Service." Mrs. Della Terwilliger gave the first reading, which was a biographical sketch of the "Life of Frances E. Willard," by Lillian Stevens. She also read a paper on the "Humanness of Frances Willard's Life," always thinking and doing for others. This was followed by a brief sketch of the one who succeeded Miss Willard, Anna Gordon, given by Mrs. Etta Camp, who knew Miss Gordon personally. She related happenings when Miss Gordon visited at the home of Mrs. Camp's sister, Mrs. Bailey, in Maine, telling of her wonderful personality and character and relating some of her wonderful work up until the time of her recent death. Mrs. Robert L. Mauterstock, the next speaker, then took up some of the work done and still being done by the world's leader, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, who took over the work of Miss Gordon at the time of her death and on account of ill health was unable to carry on both the work of the national and the local of the national, of which office she was in charge. Mrs. Boole has been understood by some people but is still the world's leader and working for the cause with a renewed strength.

New Paltz Normal School Activities

New Paltz, Nov. 17.—Owing to registration for the second quarter at the Normal School Tuesday, chapel was held Wednesday, November 15, and opened with "Thanksgiving Hymn". The 125th Psalm was read by Dr. Roland Will and the Lord's Prayer was in unison. Curriculum announcements were given by Dr. Lawrence H. Vandenberg. Announcements of local Red Cross drive by Miss Barbara Pfaff. Library announcements by Miss Emily Liebergold. Student council announcements by Helen Fogarty and from the practice school by Dr. Will. The Glee Club sang under Professor Howard Hoffmann's direction, "Oh Dear, What Can the Matter Be." "Music in the Air," "Lady Miza," "Like as the Father," "Lil Liza Jane," "The Slumber Boat." The orchestra played "General Milt-Up" march while the students adjourned to their classes.

VIGILANTES TRAIN TO BALK HOLDUPS

Michigan Organization Ready for Any Crime.

Plattsville, Mich.—A vigilante organization, the members of which are known, well-known citizens, is being trained in this village to cope with criminals in Allegan county.

Every specially picked resident meets at the village hall one night a month to study the county map, familiarize themselves with local situations for crime, practice the use of firearms, and enter mock holdups. The vigilante group differs from others of the familiar Michigan system of vigilantes in many counties, as the Plattsville men are equipped to meet any criminal emergency, while most of the vigilante groups are on call for bank holdups only.

The Plattsville men are subject to call from their captain or from the county sheriff, who has deputized the group.

In calling the group together all that is necessary for the captain or sheriff is to notify the Plattsville telephone exchange. Names, telephone numbers, and addresses of all members are on file.

Every man is required to study the map of Allegan county and to learn the location of every state, county, township, and rural highway and its intersections. They are required, too, to learn in detail the distances from important points to the various highways and their intersections, and to familiarize themselves with the driving time from villages and cities in the county to strategic points.

At their business meetings the vigilantes map out holdups and other major crimes and then plan their method of search. They select two or three men to stage the holdup and plan a getaway, and the rest of the organization then sets up the machinery of the mock search. They mark on the county map the spots where holdups would be likely to occur and in each different plan have outlined their method of search in such a manner that virtually every entrance and exit in the county is guarded.

Full Blooded Redskin Head of Indian School

Lawrence, Kan.—For the first time in history a full-blooded Indian is head of the Haskell Indian Institute here. He is Henry Roe Cloud, born in a wigwam "in the month of snows, early in the hungry winter," on the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska.

Henry wasn't the name his father gave him. To that brave his son was Wa-Na-Xi-Lay-Hunka, which in the Winnebago dialect means War Chief. A government school at Genoa changed all that. His first day at school found conflict and deletion of his name.

Wa-Na-Xi-Lay-Hunka was too long for the government register, and so he became Henry. After the Genoa Indian school, Cloud went East, finally financing his way through Yale university.

He became a teacher and leader of his tribesmen. He made a valiant fight for the freedom of Indians and their wives and children imprisoned at Fort Sill, Okla., after their leader had waged war against the government. He won the fight. Later he became a field representative of the Indian service, and recently was appointed superintendent of Haskell Institute.

Frauds in Bibles Are Revealed by Collector

San Francisco.—The experience of John Howell, owner of the finest private collection of Bibles in the west, reveal that even that book does not escape being a party to frauds and deceptions. "Every week some one brings in a Bible and tries to sell it as a valuable copy hundreds of years old. But they are only 60 to 90 years old," Howell said.

"Some of them have been stained by soaking in tea or coffee to give the pages the yellow tinge of centuries. These stained pages easily can be detected by examining the paper—if you know what to look for. A Bible printed on old paper from plates engraved from a photostatic copy of an original work also can be detected. Most collectors have bound photostatic copies of every rare edition and even a hurried checkup will reveal a counterfeit."

Howell started his collection only seven years ago. Today he has 200 volumes printed in 30 languages. He values it at $50,000.

Hubby's "Butter Dance" Brings on Divorce Suit

Evansville, Ind.—A "butter dance" put on by John Moore, Arondale, led to a divorce suit recently in Superior court. In listing her reasons for wanting the divorce, Mrs. Moore said that after a family quarrel her husband smeared butter all over the floor and then danced on it.

In another fit of temper, she said, he tore down a store pipe and poured the soot into the beds.

Sanctuary for Bob White
Maquoketa, Iowa.—Bob White quail will have a 2,844-acre refuge here next year, according to plans recently made by Jackson county farmers. The farmers organized, and obtained permission of the state fish and game department to set aside the land.

ELECTROLUX operates for less.. and gives you more!

Permanent silence—freedom from repairs—gas company service—long life

No other automatic refrigerator costs as little to operate as the New Air-Cooled Electrolux! And with good reason! Electrolux has no moving parts. A tiny gas flame circulates the simple refrigerant. Ordinary air cools it. And that's all! Unmatched, too, is the permanent silence of Electrolux. With no moving parts, there is nothing about Elec-trolux to cause noise—or grow noisy. Nothing, either, to wear. But judge Electrolux for yourself! Examine carefully its many convenience features... adjustable split shelves... non-stop defrosting... trigger release on trays... temperature regulator.

And with all this—expect more! Expect lasting satisfaction! Electrolux makes only quality refrigerators—the finest! Yet it costs no more to buy than other leading refrigerators. And we—your gas company—back every one we sell.
